Olyer-Booker

A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage of the Congregational church in Norway Saturday morning at six thirty o'clock. The contracting parties were Susie E. Booker and Wilbur F. Olyer, both of Athol, Mass. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Andrew Campbell. The double ring service was used. The bride wore a traveling suit of dark blue with a hat of white heckel and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. Mrs. Olyer came to Athol from Norway and has been in the millinery business here for the past four years. Mr. Olyer was formerly of New York state. He has been engaged in the machinery business in Athol for a number of years. They left by auto for the Adirondacks by way of Burlington, Lake George and Lake Champlain; thence to Malone, N. Y., Saranac Lake and Lion Mountain, returning by way of Plattsburg, visiting the historic Ausable Chasm, making a trip of about three hundred miles. On their return they will reside with the bride's mother, Mrs. Ella J. Booker. No cards.

Charles H. Adams' condition remains the same and his sister, Mrs. Julia Abbott, of West Paris, is with him.

Ida Foss of Auburn has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Pitts of Harrison and aunt Elizabeth Foss on Winter street during the Chautauqua. Marshall Pitts joined the party for the week end. Ida Foss returned to Harrison Thursday with Mrs. Pitts for a visit.

Edwin C. Winslow started Wednesday on a vacation of two weeks from Longley & Butts. Pushing the lawn mower and hoeing crops is his method for rest.

Mrs. Susan Merrill is boarding with Hattie A. Small on Lynn street.

Frank Stairs, the wrestling promoter, has been ordered to appear before the Exemption Board for examination at Bangor. He left town Thursday. John Aspinall has his place on the ice cart during his absence.

The Red Cross assisted by the Boy Scouts, sold lemonade on the Chautauqua grounds and on Main street Tuesday afternoon, securing $6.50 toward the relief fund.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smith and daughters, Eleanor and Elsie, are visiting Mrs. Smith's former home at Richmond.

Jennie Barrows, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Mureh, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Flint at Norway Lake.

Helen Cole of Paris Hill is spending the week with Tessa Thibodeau.

Earl Thibodeau, who has been visiting in Massachusetts, has returned home.

Mrs. Esther Parker of Worcester, Mass., is visiting her nieces Nellie Smith and Mrs. W. S. Luck.

Mrs. Guy Carter and two children, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Carter, returned to their home in Revere, Mass., Monday.

Mrs. F. Robert Seavey, who has been at the St. Joseph Hospital at Nashua, has returned home.

Hazel Bicknell is assisting in the millinery store of Mrs. E. L. Powers. Lillian spends a part of the time at the lake with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cole of Bryant Pond were guests Sunday of Mrs. Cole's father, S. C. Foster and sisters, Hazel and Doris.

Laura Lemieux finished work at the Atherton Furniture Store Tuesday and is assisting in the drug store of F. P. Stone.

Mrs. A. L. Cook and daughter Pearl plan to go to Old Orchard in a few days, where they have hired a cottage for two weeks.

Miss Anna M. Stone who has been having a two weeks' vacation, resumed taking boarders Monday morning.

The last services at the Congregational church before the summer vacation was held last Sunday. The regular services of the church will be held either the first or second Sunday in September.

E. B. Jackson is having a new cement sidewalk put in front of his store—a much needed repair.

The last of the street obstruction was removed Tuesday morning and now the new cement Main street is completed and in working order the full length. A large number of people up and down Main street turned out Saturday and cleaned up the street in front of their stores. The question in the minds of many is "Who is going to attend to cleaning up and taking care of the street now that it is done?"

Ruth Cummings and Sara True with some of the boy scouts assisted by Marion Gibson, Mildred Curtis, Ralph Murdock and Roscoe McKay sold lemonade at the Chautauqua grounds Tuesday afternoon. The funds received are to be donated to the Red Cross. $7.25 was received.

Howard Smith feels that he has not the time to act as treasurer of the Red Cross Auxiliary and act as one of the executive committee too, so according to instructions from Boston the chairman must appoint some one to take his place. Eugene Swett has been appointed.

Dr. Harry P. Jones was at the St. Barnabas Hospital in Portland, Wednesday, where Mrs. Jones is rapidly recovering from a serious surgical operation. Although not able to sit up the patient has remembered relatives and intimate friends with notes from her own hand.

Samuel Moore of Gilead was in town Wednesday, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. H. W. Brown.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Andrews and Nellie Andrews returned from Old Orchard, Tuesday.

NUMBER 31. NORWAY, ME. FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1917. VOLUME XLVIII

Community Chautauqua

Big Crowds at Every Entertainment; Hot Weather No Draw Back; 526 Tickets Pledged for Chautauqua for 1918. Successful Event for 1917.

The Community Chautauqua opened its second season for this locality on the Oxford County fair grounds Saturday afternoon, July 28, for a run of five days. A play festival at 7 o'clock Friday evening on the grounds as a preliminary to the big event drew a large number of eager youngsters ready for any sport as well as many older people. Ada Belle Kuhn of New York, play leader with Miss Fisher as assistant, both members of the Chautauqua, had the people interested in many games. In fact, adults were not slow to cast off their dignity for season and romp as they have not done in years.

An interesting feature was the course ticket hunt. Orders for four of the concerted pasteboards were concealed about the lot, then the youngsters were let loose. After diligent search Glenn Andrews and Clarence Sheldon both of Norwa, Madelyn Martin and Hester Ordway of South Paris secured the prizes.

Owing to curtailed train arrangements over several transportation lines, the outfit didn't arrive from their last stand in New York State until late Saturday forenoon. At first plans were entertained to use Norway Opera House for the opening matinee, but after an interview with the local committee it was decided to open as advertised even if a delay was necessary. Superintendent W. T. Dougherty with his assistant, Guy W. Wells, and tentman Carl Christroffers got busy overcoming several annoying set backs and had the big top 80x110 up at 3:30. A large crowd waited patiently during the operation and took the matter in a philosophical way. Boy scouts and citizens volunteered their services and each of the 300 or more that made the afternoon audience carried a chair under the canvas to a convenient spot. This relieved the workers and hastened matters considerably. While everything was not in ship shape when the performance opened, yet everybody understood this peculiar situation and overlooked every inconvenience.

The Mendelssohn Sextette, composed of Miss Munz of Missouri violinist and director; Miss Krake of Michigan, pianist; Miss Witham of Ohio, trombonist; Miss Walker of Iowa, cornetist; Miss Pettenger of Oklahoma and Miss Morton of Vermont, drums, furnished a miscellaneous program that was well received. Their descriptive instrumental numbers, popular musical hits and vocal sextette work in several costume changes were above the average. Miss Morton's readings gave evidence of careful training and Miss Munz' violin solo was a revelation.

Saturday evening—Five hundred gathered and were delighted with the truly patriotic entertainment. The sextette were at their best opening with a standard overture by Thomas. They rendered a characteristic Southern plantation number, "The Negro's Dream," also the descriptive "Mosquito Parade" the humor of which was appreciated as the audience had been repelling the advance of these insects throughout the show. Miss Morton read entertainingly and Miss Munz appeared again in violin solos, "Dawning," with an encore the "Rosary." A patriotic character reading introducing the company in several wardrobe changes with songs, ending with the Star-Spangled Banner closed their part of the evening's treat.

Hon. A. C. Shallenberger, Ex-Governor of Nebraska and member of the committee on military affairs in Congress is one of the greatest western statesmen, a banker and owner of a large stock ranch near Omaha, Neb. His popularity can be learned from the fact that he is the first Democrat to represent his district in Congress. The subject "True Patriotism" held the closest attention for more than an hour.

Mr. Shallenberger is an orator with a strong personality. He has solid, convincing material and is blessed with the gift of clear expression. The speaker covered a wide field in reviewing our present war conditions. By comparisons, starting from vassalage and feudalism through several centuries of despotic rule thrust home the fact that the American citizen should wake to golden opportunities offered under the flag. If we are to exist by crushing barbarism it means freely giving men and money. It means bleeding hearts and crushed spirits, but only through sacrifice and suffering can the highest, noble citizenship be purchased.

Sunday afternoon—The Boston Musical Entertainers attracted a large audiance. This company includes Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Pieree of the Pierce Dramatic School, Boston; Edward Stallings, baritone, William Griffith, violinist and Grace Sage, a graduate of the Leland Powers School, accompanist. Each member is an artist and offered a varied literrary and musical treat fully in keeping with the day. Their program included vocal and violin solos, readings by Mrs. Pierce, impersonations by Mr. Pierce and piano monologues. Ada Belle Kuhn had a story hour for the children at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Sunday evening—Another appreciative crowd gathered that taxed the seating capacity of the big tent. The Boston Musical Entertainers gave the prelude consisting of vocal and violin solos by Messrs. Griffith and Stallings with Grace Sage at the piano; a patriotic piano monologue by Mrs. Pierce and a character sketch "The Lawyer's Advice" by the Pierces. This neat playette introduced an elderly country judge and a city lady who was after professional advice concerning a divorce from a brute of a husband who was so unconcerned about her absence that he had written but five letters in seven days. Good counsel from the kind hearted judge fixed the matter satisfactorily and she realized the situation after listening to a story where misunderstanding figured prominently. Humor and pathos were nicely blended in this short domestic story, leaving the moral well defined at the climax.

John S. Knox of Cleveland, Ohio, delivered a sound, practical address on "Community Efficiency" that gave material for long reflection. Mr. Knox is no theorist but has sold goods on the road. He has been at the top notch of a successful business career passing through every discouraging condition the average man is against. He lost everything in the San Francisco earthquake, but just pegged his way back. Five books on business efficiency from his pen are taken as expert advice wherever the higher branches of science are taught. The evening lecture was handled along the lines of agricultural, industrial and educational efficiency. Failure in either or all of these branches is due highly to our school system that does not give the child what he needs and is best fitted to absorb. The country school breeds discontent in the former boy and he rushes from his studies into the city, there to mingle with an army of the untrained. The average college course fails to bring out efficient men and women in practical ways, they being only half fitted to assume business duties thrust on them. Practical experience so widely considered formerly as the essential to success is not enough in this age. Trained men from the head down are in demand, if not prepared he quickly settles to the down and out class. In this country alone one person in fourteen is a tramp because of this lack of personal efficiency. Mail order houses are reaping millions in money from the "community grafter" because they have attacked the problem from the angle that the average country retailer is not up to date as a buyer or seller. He has failed to study the local trade conditions and woefully lacking in the rudimentary knowledge of his business. Competition is not the life of trade, it is cooperation that booms a town.

In speaking of the big national business interests Mr. Knox stated that the American Commercial World is divided into two classes, Pirates and Patriots. The hold up by sugar and wheat speculators would illustrate the first small group whose souls have shrunk and worse than brutish.

Monday morning—The play superintendent and the assistant, Miss Fisher, met the children at an early hour for an out door picnic. Bacon was roasted and eggs boiled over open fires and everybody camped down for a regular camp mess. A frolic that included exercises with the medicine ball, folk dances with singing, walking and mental games under the cool pines occupied the alloted time.

Monday afternoon—A crowd thronged the tent in spite of the weather man that drove the mercury to 90 in the shade. All were fully repaid by an artistic program of real merit. The Tschaikowsky Quartet that included piano, first and second violins and cello offered selections in the prelude that included "Part and Peasant" overture, "Spanish Dance," a piano solo with encore, a cello solo and string accompaniment and a characteristic selection. Leon Weltman, violinist and conductor is a graduate of the Imperial Conservatory at Moscow, having studied under the great masters. His fame has gone abroad through England and Russia. Boston, New York and other great musical centers have listened to his grand work.

Josephine Chilton, the famous Southern reader gave word pictures of the typical negro as she has observed him in his original setting about her home locality. Her dialect and mannerisms were cleverly impersonated with bits of oddity and humor gathered personally and through the writings of James Allen and Joel Chandler Harris. Selections from "Uncle Remus Stories" and Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox together with three poems from Mr. Harris' humorous pen demonstrated the reader's ability to entertain through this novel channel.

Eugene N. Swett of the local committee in pleading for a more general call for course tickets, stated that Norway and South Paris draw from a territory supporting 15,000 people, so should have little trouble in disposing of 500 season Chautauqua tickets. Last season was an experiment and the signers of the $1000 guarantee went behind $3 each after the books were balanced. This year 490 tickets had been sold and he made a strong appeal for some generous person to secure the remaining and close the account. It is not customary for the management to extend this privilege after the Chautauqua opens, but they have made it as easy as possible for the local committee.

Monday evening—A fine musical prelude was given by the Tchaikowsky Quartet introducing classical selections arranged to bring out the best of each artist's ability. Their program included the "Hungarian Rapsody" and "Andante Cantata". Leon Weltman, the violinist, was at his best, rendering several solos of his own composition, one being dedicated to the Chautauqua patrons. The complete William Tell overture by the company drew several encores, concluding with an original arrangement of "Old Folks at Home." They were generous with their talent and cheerfully responded until the time limit had been reached.

Dr. E. L. Williams of the Grace Methodist church, Chicago, better known as the "Fighting Parson" held the large audience while he delivered a powerful address "The City and the Soil." Dr. Williams is an easy speaker and his spontaneous wit attracts the listeners attention from the beginning. He does not grow prosy for his story of vice and gambling suppression is realistic. Legal fights against corrupt political machinery gained from personal adventures in the underworld for convicting evidence, give a touch of color that cannot fail to command notice. Dr. Williams' story of his "clean-up" appeals to every true citizen who can boast of red blood. Although a pastor in a large parish he found time to formulate and pilot a crusade against organized vice and lawlfulness in Chicago, that resulted in a complete "house cleaning" in the district where he worked. His forces not only ousted the gang of thugs and booze merchants, but cleaned up a strongly intrenched municipal combine, making that section safe for women and girls and a

Baker-Hayden

Early Saturday evening, July 28, more than one hundred and fifty relatives and friends assembled at The Haverhill on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Hayden of Haverhill, Mass. At this time Caroline Winchester Hayden was united in marriage with Arthur DeWint Baker of New York, the impressive double ring service being used by Rev. Chas. R. Tenney of Southbridge, Mass.

The bridal party proceeded from the cottage down a pathway of ferns with floral arches at intervals along the way to the pier where, under a canopy of flowers, the ceremony was performed. An orchestra from Portland played the wedding march and flower girls opened the gates made from a variety of wild blossoms and delicate ferns, as the procession passed slowly along. The bride was becomingly gowned in white lustre satin lace with veil of tulle. Mary Adeline Hayden, a sister of the bride and maid of honor wore pink ruffled organdie, with pink picture hat and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids, Katharine Smith of Birmingham, Ala., and Rhea Fuller of Los Angeles, Cal., were gowned in white organdie with pink picture hats and carried pink roses. Pauline Hayden, Madelyn Hayden, Mary Knight and Helen Morton, cousins of the bride, acted the role of flower girls and were dressed in white and decorated with pink ribbons. Roland Knight of Manchester, Mass., acted as best man.

An informal reception in the cottage immediately followed the ceremony. Floral decorations were conspicuous everywhere; in the cottaage, about the pier and boathouse and in the trees throughout the spacious ground. The whole color scheme was in pink and white and well planned by Fred H. Cummings, representing hours of labor. Beautiful lighting effects in the grove were conspicuous. Refreshments were served by Pooler, the Portland caterer. Dancing occupied the evening until a late hour, the groom having the first number with the guest of honor, Mrs. Clara J. L. Hayden, 88 years of age, grandmother of his bride. After the festivities the couple left for Woodbury, N. J., where they will reside.

Mrs. Baker is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H Hayden of. Haverhill, Mass., both natives of Norway, the family having passed many summers here by the lakeside. She is a graduate of the Haverhill High School and the Quincy Mansion Finishing School, also has received a musical education from some of the best instructors in Boston.

Mr. Baker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Baker of New York City and a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology 1917. He is employed as Government chemist in Woodbury, N. J., where they have a beautiful home.

A large number of guests were here from New York, Elizabeth, N. J., Boston, Salem, Manchester, Haverhill, Los Angeles, Cal., and Birmingham, Ala.

Leavitt-Sinclair

A pretty home wedding took place Monday, July 30, at 12 noon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Leavitt on Orchard street when his youngest son, William Holden Leavitt, was united in marriage to Lettie Isabelle Sinclair of Portland.

The house was daintily decorated with ferns and oxeye daisies, Mrs. E. W. Hutchins, sister of the bride groom, having them in charge. The ceremony was performed in the presence of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The officiating clergyman was Rev. C. G. Miller, who used the single ring service. The bride was becomingly gowned in a traveling suit of Champagne French serge. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served.

Mr. Leavitt graduated from the Norway High School in the class of 1912. For a time he worked for his father, Wm. C. Leavitt, in the hardware business and later attended Wentworth Institute at Boston. He is now employed with the Clough & Pillsbury hardware firm at Rumford.

Mrs. Leavitt is the daughter of D. D. Sinclair of New Brunswick and for the past five years has made her home in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Leavitt left on the afternoon train for Manchester, N. H., where they will spend the week with the bride's sister. They will make their home at Rumford.

Those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Leavitt, Christine Leavitt of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hutchins and children, Esther and Clark, Mrs. Rose Clark, Berenice Nash, Albert Hobbs of Milton, N. H., and Austin Macomber of Rumford.

Veranda Club Notes.

The Veranda Club was entertained Thursday evening, July 26, with Mrs. Alta J. Sheen, treasurer of the Club as hostess. The first evening on Red Cross work was taken up and all seemed enthused with the work. A small number was present, yet good work was accomplished. The work will be continued at the next meeting which will be held with Mrs. Cordelia McKay, 2 Cummings Place, Thursday afternoon, August 9th. Members are asked to bring material suitable for snipping. After the business meeting the hostess served fancy cookies, confectionery and lemonade. For entertainment selections were given by W. W. Sheen upon the player piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Abbott have extended an invitation to members of the Mt. Hope Rebekah Lodge to meet at their home on Pike Hill, Wednesday afternoon and evening, Aug. 8. Tables will be set on the lawn and a picnic supper served. A fine social time is assured.

Two instructors and several boys from Camp Wigwam stopped in town with Charles Bradford, Wednesday. They are on a hiking trip, having walked from Lewiston, Wednesday with the mercury hanging on the 130 degree mark. The party continued on the journey Thursday forenoon.

The shoe makers on the upper floor of the Carroll, Jellerson Co. factory suffered greatly from the heat Wednesday. The cutting and stitching room thermometers registered close to 100 degrees. The roof was wet down several times during the afternoon. Readings about town varied from 89 to 102 in the shade.

Frank Seavey

The body of Frank Seavey was brought to Norway Monday afternoon for burial in Pine Grove cemetery. Mr. Seavey died Thursday, July 26, at the home of his son, George M. Seavey in Boston, following an illness of several months of Brights disease.

The deceased was born in Fryeburg, September 17, 1855, the son of Stephen J. and Sarah M. (Graham) Seavey. When he was three years of age his parents came to Norway to reside. He was educated in the Norway schools and was a shoe cutter by trade.

He married Ida M. Hosmer of Sweden, December 18, 1875, who died several years ago. They lived in Portsmouth, N. H., for many years. Since Mr. Seavey's health failed he has made his home with his son, where he was given every attention. Besides his son, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Smith, 83 years of age, of Norway, a sister, Mrs. Sadie Conner, and a brother, Harry Seavey, both of Lynn.

Eleanor Smith, aged eight years and Marita Cushman, aged nine years, called at this office Wednesday afternoon and left a purse containing a sum of money which they had found on Main street and wanted us to see if we could find the owner.

SOUTH PARIS

Maxine Bennett is spending a week at the England Cottage at Bryant's Pond, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson and daughter, Miriam.

Rev. and Mrs. D. F. Faulkner have returned from their vacation, and their daughters, Alice Faulkner of Wilkes Barre, Pa., and Marguerite Faulkner of Boston, arrived on Monday. Services will be resumed at Deering Memorial Church next Sunday.

An automobile party in three cars made a trip into Franklin County, July 26 and 27, spending the night at Rangeley, and visiting numerous points of interest there. Those in the party were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bean, Mrs. Cora S. Briggs and Mrs. Kate Linder, with Mr. Bean's car; Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Bolster, Ruth Bolster and Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Elder, with Mr. Bolster's car; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Haynes with Mr. Wilson's car.

Mayor Frank P. Stearns of Shawnee, Okla., formerly of Paris, has been visiting his mother, Mrs. S. P. Stearns, and other relatives at Bethel, and his brothers Henry K. Stearns of Hebron and Austin P. and W. C. Stearns of Paris, and called on friends here. He returns to Oklahoma this week.

H. W. Clifford of Worcester, Mass., and his two sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley K. Clifford of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Clifford of Pittsfield, Mass., are visiting their relatives at South Paris. Henry E. Clifford of Grand Isle, Neb. arrived this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Edwards; Annie Wheeler and Frank Dudley enjoyed several days' outing at Camp Rocky at Plesant Lake in Otisfield.

Effie Hardy, who has been visiting her sister, Ethel Hardy, returned to her home in Haverhill, Mass, Saturday.

Caroline Gray and Albert D. Park made an automobile trip to East Sumner, Friday; bringing back Mrs. El'a Heald and Beryl Russell who were guests during the Community Chautauqua.

Rev. Chester G. Miller preached Sunday in Rumford, Bluefield and Bryant's Pond.

Leon A. Brooks has purchased the Francis A. Whittemore farm in Buckfield containing about 200 acres.

Raymond W. Penfold, who has enlisted in the Eleventh Co. Maine Coast Artillery Corps, has been here from Portland on a short leave of absence to visit his mother, Mrs. Agnes L. Morton and other relatives. Raymond is a New England League pitcher and will be missed on the diamond by his many admirers.

A party of boy scouts from Allston, Massachusetts with Rev. H. R. Whitelock as leader passed a night in town, recently. The boys were entertained at supper by Mrs. George Morton, and they camped in a tent over night near the Morton residence. Rev. Whitelock was entertained in the home of Edward Murch on Park street. They left Saturday for Old Orchard. The party are on their return from a hike through the White Mountains.

Leo Walton, who went to Winthrop Center to the Junior Volunteer Camp, has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Walton, that he expects to go to Aroostook to work on a potato farm.

Albert L. King visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. King for two days while on a short leave of absence during the time that certain changes were being made in the torpedo boat Blakely at New London, Ct. Mr. King, who was in Portland and a member of the Maine Naval Reserve, was called into service and assigned to the Blakely after the U. S. entered the war. He is now second in command, with the rank of ensign. Philip H. King has also made his parents a day's visit within a short time. He has enlisted in the James Blaine battery of the Milliken regiment of artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. Sarah Clark and Mrs. Lizzie Edgerley went to Lewiston for an outing, from there took the electrics and had a trolley trip to Cape Cottage, where they had a shore dinner, returning home at night.

Robert E. Shaw and family are occupying a cottage at Old Orchard beach this week.

Mrs. George R. Morton's Universalist Sunday School class, the Pathfinders, enjoyed an auto trip recently through the Waterfords, Harrison, the Bridgtons to the foot of Pleasant Mountain in Denmark, where breakfast was served in true campers' style. The boys enjoyed a swim in Lake Keoka, Waterford, and reached South Paris soon after noon. The afternoon was spent in Ames grove. Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Morton, George F. Farnum, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Forbes, Mr. Morton and Mr. Farnum driving the two cars. The Pathfinders were Henry Morton, Lester Cushman, Leslie Marston, Howard Jackson, Ralph Maxim, Llewellyn Russell, Maynard Record, Lawrence Thurlow, Howard Aldrich and Gordon Powers.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to our neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during our recent time of sorrow, also for the beautiful floral offerings received. "Truely a friend in need is a friend indeed."
MR. AND MRS. S. C. ORDWAY,
MISS HESTER M. ORDWAY.
South Paris, Me., August 1, 1917. *

Mrs. Ada Richardson

Mrs. Ada Richardson, widow of Chauncey Richardson, passed away at her late residence Thursday afternoon, July 26, at 5 o'clock after an illness of two weeks with heart trouble.

Mrs. Richardson was born in Rumford, Dec. 15, 1832, the daughter of Otis and Melinda Silver Baker. She attended the public schools of Rumford.

In 1877 she was united in marriage to Chauncey S. Richardson at Rumford They resided in Rumford and Bethel, coming to South Paris to live about 32 years ago. Mr. Richardson died in 1899.

About a year ago Mrs. Richardson was taken ill while on her vacation at Peak's Island and suffered a partial shock but she rallied from her illness and gained in health so to be around the house until the second week in July when she was taken ill with heart trouble and gradually grew worse until the end. During all of her years of failing health and last sickness she was faithfully and tenderly cared for by her step daughter Mrs. Eva Ordway, and everything which medical aid and care could do was done for her to alleviate her sufferings.

She was a member of the Deering Memorial Church, the Ladaies Aid, the Foreign Missionary Society and the Ladies of the G. A. R., all of which she took an active interest in as long as her strength permitted.

Mrs. Richardson is survived by her step daughter, Mrs. Sherman C. Ordway, one granddaughter, Hester Marion Ordway of South Paris and several nephews and nieces.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, attended by Rev. Dwight F. Faulkner, pastor of Deering Memorial church, who spoke very fittingly of the exemplary life and character of the deceased. Mrs. Luella C. Smiley, a friend and neighbor, sweetly sang "A Silent Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Cora Briggs. The funeral was largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors and the Ladies of the G. A. R. attended in a body.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, a silent token of esteem. Those present at the funeral from away were Mr. and Mrs. Baker Phillips, May Phillips, Hester Verrill of Hebron; Mrs. May Allen of Portland; Mrs. Addie Wakefield of Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Phillips of Auburn, Mrs. Donna Lasselle of Melrose. Mass., Mrs. C. W. Carl of Westbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ordway of Rumford; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor and Mrs. Ora Mitchell of Roxbury.

The bearers were Benjamin Swett, Geo. Cook, Edd N. Anderson and George Farnum. Interment took place in the family lot at Riverside Cemetery. At the cemetery the Ladies of the G. A. R. held their impressive burial service.

Woman's Suffrage Meetings

The suffrage tea given by Mrs. A. C. Wheeler Friday afternoon proved to be a most interesting event. About forty guests assembled on the lawn, which was decorated with baskets of yellow daisies, the suffrage color. L. Lola Walker of Pennsylvania, a representative of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, gave a general outline and spoke especially of the part which Maine women must play in the fall campaign. Miss Walker's talk was interesting, convincing, safe and sane. After the lecture Mrs. Wheeler served refreshments. She was assisted in this by Mrs. Stewart, Eva Walker, Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Rankin. A committee was formed to further the interests of woman suffrage in South Paris. The committee consists of Mrs. L. A. Rounds, Mrs. Ella Wight, Mrs. Edna Shaw, Mrs. Susie Chapman, Mrs. A. J. Clifford, Mrs. E. W. Morton, Mrs. F. A. Heidner, Mrs. M. L. Noyes, Mrs. Annie Swift, Mrs. Amy Strickland, Mrs. A. W. Walker, Ethel C. Crockett, Mrs. D. B. Partridge, Mrs. L. E. Bean, Alta W. Rankin, Mrs. D. M. Stewart, Eva E. Walker, Ethel D. Carter, Emma E. Park, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Alton Wheeler. The officers of the committee are: Chairman, Alta Rankin; Vice-Chairman, Edith Wheeler; Secretary, Ethel C. Crockett.

In the evening Miss Walker addressed several hundred people at the County fair grounds. The Chautauqua management offered the suffrage committee the use of their tent, but as the outfit had not arrived the speaker made the best of it. In the open air without lights, she launched into the woman's suffrage question with affirmative arguments and convincing answers to the set "antis" objections. Her address was logical and convincing. Albert D. Park in a brief talk advocated the adoption of the suffrage amendment now pending.

Prof. M. C. Joy and wife, Dr. Carl S. Briggs and wife, Mrs. Cora Briggs and Mrs. Kate Linder recently made an automobile trip around the White Mountains.

NOT DUE TO SEX ALONE

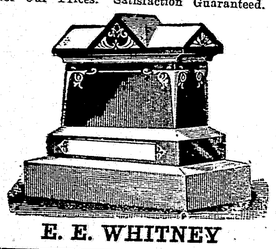

Norway Women Have Learned The Cause of Many Mysterious Pains and Aches.

Many women have come to know that sex isn't the reason for all backaches, dizzy headaches and urinary disorders. Men have these troubles, too, and often they come from kidney weakness. To live simply, eat sparingly, take better care of one's self and to use Doan's Kidne Pills, is bound to help bad kidneys get better. There is no other remedy so well-recommended by Norway people. Read this case:

Mrs. Myrtie Payne Hazen St., Norway, says: "A few years ago I was having pains across my back and kidneys. They annoyed me very much and on stooping or lifting, I felt them more. I found Doan's Kidney Pills very good for this trouble. As I used them, the pains gradually lessened and soon I as practically free from the trouble. Doan's Kidney Pills are surely worthy of recommendation."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Payne had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

WHAT IS BEING DONE IN OXFORD COUNTY

Oxford County can be counted on as being up and doing on the questions that are confronting the farmers, the housewives, the fruit growers and the pine growers as well as enlisting its young men into the army. As to the food question, actual figures show a lead over the whole State.

The summary of acreage in crops shows a gain over 1916 of 104 per cent. in beans, 12 per cent. in sweet corn, 160 per cent. in flint corn, 45 per cent. in oats, 50 per cent. in buckwheat and a satisfactory per cent. in wheat.

More individual gardens are under cultivation this year than ever before and much of the increased interest along this line is due to the activities of the Public Safety Committee. This committee has been of much service to the farmer. A thorough canvass of the county was made to find what the farmers had on hand, and what they needed. Measures were then taken to get those in need of seed in touch with those who had a surplus, by use of the mails. This was found to be impracticable, as many were not prompt in replying, and the gap was too great to be closed.

In the next move the committee decided to buy the seed outright of those having the surplus and deliver it to the parties in need of it. During this campaign the Public Safety Committee handled 732 bushels of potatoes, 26 bushels seed beans, 6 1-2 bushels flint corn, 32 bushels wheat, about 100 bushels oats, also rye, buckwheat, soy beans, and small garden seeds were also taken along. Prof. George A. Yeaton of Norway, the Oxford County agent from the extension service of the University of Maine, traveled miles and miles distributing seed, and his auto was literally a traveling seed car. At one time he had 17 bushels of potatoes, and two bushels of beans loaded into it, which he distributed in sections most needed. One gratifying feature was the fact that not a single request was not complied with.

At the time of the heavy rains, much land was overflowed, seed was washed out, and a great deal rotted in the ground but notwithstanding this discouragement, the farmers have looked at the situation very sensibly. Professor Yeaton has found many "on the fence" but he has endeavored to get around among them to "stiffen their back bone" as he expresses it, and get them to realize that seed planted as late as the middle of July, is sure to bring a good yield with a normal season.

As a general thing, the farmers have planted more acreage than ever before, and many are trying out their first experience, and the outlook was pretty discouraging for awhile, but with the warm days and bright sunshine of the past few weeks, the present outlook is very fair.

The committe has been a help to the farmer in another way, in providing help that was needed, and those of the committee who had autos conveyed men who were willing to work on the farms, back and forth, night and morning. During the slack time in the shoe factory, many of the workmen took advantage of the good prices paid by the farmers and helped in the hoeing and will remain until after haying.

Increased interest has also been taken in pig raising, and more pork is being raised in the country than in any previous year. A committee has been appointed to investigate the sanitary conditions and the method of feeding, so this industry is being carried on under scientific principles. Mr. Talbot Mundy, the popular author, who has made his home in Norway for several years past, has interested about a dozen of his New York friends in this question, who are boarding their pigs with the farmers in town.

For the further conservation of the food supply, the Public Safety Committee arranged a canning demonstration, when the "cold pack" method was demonstrated. A State wide demonstration is now on during the months of July and August, and in Oxford County Prof. Yeaton is again busy appointing a committee of three women in each town to co-operate with the demonstrator from the extension service of the University of Maine. By the cold pack method, there is a saving of fuel and material; the keeping qualities are insured, and the products are superior in taste, texture and color.

Professor Yeaton in the direction of farm demonstration, recently held a meeting in the orchard of Thomas Chase, in Buckfield, when the Niagara Duster was used. The spray was bought by Conant Bros. of the Oxford Bear Association, the first dusting machine to be brought into the State, and probably into New England. The neighbors for miles around saw the work. The Maine Experiment Station sent a representative. Farmers all over the State are watching the effects of the dusting in this orchard. It is claimed to be a big saving of expense in many ways, one in time, two men and a team, being able to do in three hours' time what took three men and a team two days to spray, having no trouble in operating 40 acres a day under average conditions. It also alleviates the trouble of obtaining water, and it is a proven fact that most fungus diseases, chewing insects, and sucking insects, which are injurious to fruit trees may be controlled as readily with the modern dusting method, as with the spraying method, and at a cost of approximately 25 per cent in favor of the dusting method.

The pine blister rust has been looked into carefully as to the spreading of this infestation, and no new trees have been found this Spring. In places where the five needle white pine are growing, the people have been much worried.

Oxford County is fortunate in having as one of the Committee on Public Safeay, and also as farm demonstrator, Prof. Yeaton, who is enthusiastic over the work and keenly alive to the great necessity of a well organized and energetic campaign.

Fire in the Mrs. Albert McCrellis rent just off Paris street caused the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Chick, to vacate suddenly about 3 o'clock Sunday morning. At this hour Mrs. Chick was awakened by the infant's cry and smelling smoke she called her husband. Woodwork about the chimney was found to be ablaze and a dense smoke was pouring through the rooms. The family rushed across Paris street and awakened their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Chick. An extinguisher was hurried to the spot and after the blaze could be located, quick work with an ax and pails of water put out the blaze without sounding an alarm. The fire is supposed to have been caused by an overheated chimney from burning soot. The kitchen stove had not been used to any extent Saturday and this must have been smouldering during several days, generating intense heat that finally started a fire in the surrounding woodwork. It was by the merest chance that the family were not smothered and burned to death at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronell C. Bicknell, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Melvin and George Drew enjoyed an auto trip to Old Orchard Sunday.

The Dennis Real Estate Agency has sold the Charles Sanborn stand at Welchville to Charles Moulton of South Paris for improvement and occupancy. This is a neat place on the state highway and will make a comfortable home.

The following from Co. D were home this week on a short furlough: Private Scott Palmer visited his sister, Mrs. Carl Foss; Private Henry Stone was with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Stone; Private Everett Whitman remained with Mr. and Mrs. Ned Cross and Corp. William Bennett with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Bennett.

George Bennett, the painter is working out a hand carved letter sign for the Frank H. Noyes Co. The gold leafed display will be twenty feet long.

Stuart M. Terrier of Baltimore, Md., who has spent several summers in Norway, has entered the naval service of the United States, as First Lieutenant in the aviation corp and he has gone to Pensacola, Florida for a four months training preparatory to being sent to France. His friends here will watch his course with the same interest as if one of our own boys.

In our item concerning H. Fogg of Montreal, it was stated he was a lieutenant in the Canadian Army and was in line for further promotion. We have since learned that Mr. Fogg is not a Lieutenant, but holds the rank of Sergeant Instructor.

Some talk is being made because horses at different parts of the village are led on the sidewalk which is a nuisance in many ways, as well as liable to break up the sidewalk.

MUSTER ROLL COMPLETED

Company D, Second Maine Infantry stationed at Camp Keyes, Augusta, is complete and recruited to war strength. The following muster roll is of local interest for the majority of names are familiar, and we all admire the boys who voluntarily enlisted as a sacrifice to their country and civilization. Keep this honor list, for we little know the day or the hour when they will be called to an active life across the ocean. We fell sure when the evil day arrives that our sons must grimly do their bit, old Oxford County will be right there, firm and unmovable, because of these hardy young men of principal, who had the courage to step from the bench, the class room and the farm, freely offering their life if need be to a just humanitarian cause.

Medical Corps Entered Active Service

A large crowd gathered about the Norway depot Friday morning when the Medical Department of the Coast Artillery Corps under Capt. Delbert M. Stewart and Sergt. Joseph E. Hunting, left for Portland, where they will be stationed in the several forts for the present. The boys marched from their headquarters on Water street directly to the waiting train without any noisy demonstration nor did excitement run high. Everybody realized the seriousness of the occasion and were contented to shake the hand wishing each a safe return. Business houses and the factories sent delegations to meet each soldier and give a parting word of encouragement. Stone's Drug Store presented the boys with chewing gum and cigarettes and Selden Foster gave the corps a box of cigars.

At South Paris a good sized gathering added to the farewell, many going from Norway to have every moment possible with their sons or friends. The sled factory, toy shop and stores were well represented among those anxious to give a word in this touching good bye.

The company went into camp immediately on their arrival at Portland and remained together until Monday.

HARKEN BACK ON THE PAST

Twenty-four Years Ago This Week

Don C. Seitz is now assistant business manager on the New York World. He considers this the best position he has had. He has a very interesting article illustrated in the Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, August number, "Yumuri, The 'Cuban' Vale of Temp." If possible, he will visit his Norway friends about Fair time.

Nora Craigin has been engaged to teach the fall term in Dist. No. 8, Crockett Ridge.

The hitching post fever has arrived and many are the posts that are being planted along Main street. These posts are nice ones with cap piece and hoop-iron strap.

Frank Kimball left Wednesday for Woodsville, N. H., where he is to go in company with E. B. Mann in the drug business. Mr. Kimball's family will remain here for awhile.

The new board of Examining Surgeons of Oxford Co. met at the office of Dr. Rounds, South Paris, last Wednesday. The board consists of Dr. B. F. Bradbury Norway, as president; Dr. J. A. Twaddle, Bethel, secretary; Dr. C. B. Rankins Bryant Pond, treasurer. This board will, as soon as permission is granted, meet at the office of Dr. Bradbury at Norway. They meet every Wednesday at 10 o'clock A. M.

The boys have a pony they ride horseback, or rather, they get on the pony's back and he goes where he wants to. He will go round and round, sideways, backwards, most anywhere but the way a well disposed pony was designed to go. They manage to get lots of fun out of it as it is, and if they will let him go where he wants to, will give them a good ride. Like many small people, he thinks his way is best and it takes some "dingbats" to persuade him.

Frank W. Faunce and H. B. Foster are driving through the country for their health and pleasure. They visited Rumford Falls the first of the week.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles R. Tenney and daughter, Mrs. Ruth Harris, and two children of Southbridge, Mass., are at the Eugene Hayden cottage at the lake for the remainder of the summer.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS AID WAR SUFFERERS

The War Relief Fund established by The First Church of Christ, Scientist of Boston, Mass., soon after the beginning of hostilities has been the means of aiding many in the warstricken countries of Europe. The contributions to this fund have now amounted to over $325,000, and the work is being actively continued.

The following statement from the treasurer, Adam H. Dickey with references to these activities is given out by the Committee on Publication for Maine.

"We have established our own committees in the war-stricken countries of Europe and are reaching those who are in need of aid directly through this means. The work is conducted without expense to the fund itself, the committees giving their entire time to it without any compensation. In this way we feel that we are in a position to afford the very best relief work that can be given, although we are of course in sympathy with every effort that is being made by others for the mitigation of human suffering of every kind.

Our contributions have gone to Armenia, Serbia, Poland, Lithuania, Belgium, Russia, Italy, Switzerland, Holland, France, England, Germany, Canada and Australia. In countries where we have not had a committee of our own, money has been sent through the State department at Washington or through duly accredited and authorized relief committees where a minimum charge is made for administration. In this way we have been enabled to reach many of the unfortunate women and children who have been silent sufferers from the general devastation that has been wrought through many of the populous districts in which they live. This aid is not confined to Christian Scientists, but is extended to people of all nationalities and religions who are worthy of help. Our activities have not extended so much to The American Red Cross Society and to work done on the battlefield, as to the relief of those who have been stricken in their homes, through hunger and other forms of deprivation.

It has been a great privilege to us all to share in this work, which has been made possible by the generosity of our Christian Science friends throughout the land."

BE CANNY

Get that canning impulse.

Make your hoe this summer keep your can opener busy next winter.

Get ready canning season now. Regrets are the only things ever canned in the jars you forgot to order.

Can nothing that can be kept without canning. Dry such vegetables as corn, string beans, navy beans, mature Lima beans, okra, etc.

You can brag about your garden all winter if you have your canned evidence on the dinner table.

Concentrate products, especially soup mixtures, so that each container will hold as much canned food and as little water as possible.

Really there is nothing to canning fruit and vegetables except care, cleanliness, fresh products, jars, and heat.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their sympathy and kindness in our recent trouble, also the minister for his comforting words and the singers for the beautiful hymns they sang and all those who brought the beautiful floral offerings.

Community Chautauqua

real America for the foreigners who come to our shores expecting personal liberty and christian education.

Tuesday afternoon—The Royal Blue Hussars Band of fifteen pieces appeared before a capacity audience. Their director, Signor Louis Castelucci was enthusiastically received and with his musicians offered a strong program that included the Chautauqua march; overture, "Selections from Carmen"; National Emblem March; the Rosary, guitar duet; trombone solo, "Memories" by Signor Dominic; the ocarina quartet and xylophone duet by Signors Castelricci and Dominic. Irving F. Joy, the Lyric tenor of Grand Opera fame rendered two selections in Italian which were well received. The concert closed with a medley introducing American airs concluding with the Star Spangled Banner. Undoubtedly the two popular afternoon artists were Signor Dominic in trombone solos and Irving Joy the tenor.

Tuesday evening—This being Band Day, the evening program was by the Royal Blue Hussars Band. The tent was filled to overflowing, extra seats were brought in and many were seated in autos around the tent, the largest number being present than at any of the previous entertainments. The concert was excellent and brought out one round of hearty applause from the large audience. Director Castelucci was a star in his line and brought music from the band in wonderful volumes by the mere motion of the hand. A large variety of selections were rendered, among them an Italian Serenade, Wm. Tell Overture, Rigoletto and a melody of popular hymns. The encores were generous and well received. The tenor soloist, Irving F. Joy, has a remarkable voice, clear and firm and his solos and encores were loudly applauded.

Announcement was made by E. N. Swett that 509 season tickets had been sold, the number required on the guarantee. The situation was plainly expressed that if the people wanted a Chautauqua course in 1918 that tickets must be pledged to warrant it and that if the people did not pledge the number the local Chautauqua committee would "go out of business." Cards were distributed and 421 tickets were pledged. At the meeting of the association meeting following, it was thought best to sign the contract as 421 was a good showing. One hundred names are wanted on the guarantee and the names are being secured.

Wednesday afternoon—John Kendrick Bangs, the magazine editor, short story writer and lecturer of national fame entertained an audience of 600 with his personal recollections of people of more or less distinction. "Salubrities" was the subject and the speaker in an easy manner with words of humor or pathos inimitably portrayed the inner character of Richard Harding Davis, Winston Spencer Churchill, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Stanley, Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Richard Henry Stoddard, Rudyard Kipling and A. Conan Doyle. It was the beautiful influence of Julia Ward Howe that converted Mr. Bangs to a suffragegent as he termed it. Mark Twain was also a particular friend and to illustrate the great humorist's keen wit mentioned an incident when the speaker and Francis Wilson, the actor, composed a lengthy epistle in New York in commemoration of Twain's birthday. Not knowing his whereabouts, they simply addressed the missive "Mark Twain, Only the Lord knows where." In six weeks a reply was received from Vienna, Austria, containing these words, "He did," M. Twain." Woodrow Wilson was considered first as a college president, then as our chief executive. Mr. Bangs admitted that during the presidential campaign he worked hard against the democratic nominee and did all within his power to defeat him on the stump, but today, with our country in the great war and its chief struggling with the mighty problems, it becomes the duty of every true American citizen to forget party and support the honored president who has a struggle on in behalf of humanity everywhere.

Wednesday evening—A heavy electrical storm passed over this section just before the opening hour and delayed the performance nearly half an hour. The people were there just the same and the seats were practically all taken. If the weather had proved favorable, the standing room only sign would have been hung out with a crowd far beyond the seating capacity.

The Kaffir Singing Boys from the heart of Africa and their manager, J. H. Balmer, who trained the company, appeared at this last performance. It was truly a unique entertainment offering undisputable proof to the efficiency of foreign missionary labors in a land which has been brought from the deepest barbarism to christian civilizataion through their untiring efforts. Five boys picked from the Kaffirs, the Zulo and the Hottentot tribes appeared in their native dress made from monkey, leopard, goat and deer skins, singing gospel hymns in English and giving illustrations of African life with their crude native implements and strange sounding dialect. Miss Clough, who was born in Africa and brought up with the natives also appeared with the troop. Her mother was Scotch and also born in Africa and her father was English. She has been in America but a short time, having passed through many thrilling adventures in the war zone while traveling thousands of miles to fill the Chautauqua engagement.

Her lecture on the country, its people and their customs, delivered in excellent English was intensely interesting for it offered first hand word pictures seldom recorded in the ordinary books of travel. She was dressed in various adornments of Kaffir women including beautiful bead work skillfully wrought by the men who do this while their many wives labor in the fields.

Mr. Balmer, an English mining engineer, went to Africa some thirty-five years ago. Being a musician, he noted the sweet tones in that wild savage chant of the untutored native and gathering the promising youngsters, organized a singing band. The work has continued through these years with wonderful results. This company has not been long acquiring the knowledge necessary for a successful public appearance. They are certainly bright chaps.

The Community Chautauqua for next year is an assured fact as 526 tickets have been pledged and the contract signed. Under normal conditions the local association should get through next season with a neat balance in their favor. Eugene N. Swett is greatly pleased because of this generous response and expressed that appreciation in a speech during intermission. Mr. Swett didn't forget the three Chautauqua representatives and Miss Fisher, but unreservedly endorsed their work and conduct during their short stay here. Supt. Dougherty on behalf of his associates returned the compliment.

Community Play Ground and Other Matters

Emily Fisher of Norwood, Mass., a Wellesley graduate and special student in Columbia College was in charge of the play ground during the five days' engagement. She was assisted by several young ladies from the two towns. A large class was not gathered, but the excellent work accomplished will never become lost. Suitable games for body development, mental stimulation and team work have been featured, also a story hour for relaxation. The genuine camp breakfast Monday morning with practical cooking demonstrations over open fires proved enjoyable. A real parade, folk dances and singing games early Tuesday evening were novelties greatly appreciated by the young people.

A continuation of this work is assured for after considerable discussion it has been decided to establish a Community play grounds during the summer months with Mildred Holmes in charge at Norway and Florence Leach at South Paris. At stated times the two will unite in friendly rivalry to encourage good work. The local branches will be under the care of the Chautauqua play superintendent, who will offer suggestions when necessary. On a circuit of twelve stands, nine have this arrangement that has given complete satisfaction to the parents and new ideas to the child through organized play. Albert D. Park and Eugene N. Swett have been selected to secure the small sum necessary for an immediate beginning.

Miss Fisher will settle in Maine at the end of the Chautauqua season, having been appointed physical director of the Bangor Young Woman's Christian Association. A collection of $19 was taken to be divided equally between the towns and the remainder will come through contributions secured later. Twenty-five dollars for each play ground is needed.

Mrs. Ada Belle Kuhn of New York City, superintendent of the Chautauqua play grounds was here until Tuesday. She has been four years in this particular work and with this organization two years, having the oversight of twelve units on two circuits. Her work is commonly spoken of as being confined to the story telling of the Junior department, but she also has the adult classes and is especially successful in cities or large towns not accustomed to the play hour frolics. Self consciousness is soon forgotten under her method and the elders caper about with the youngsters.

Officers F. A. Hall, Charles Boober and Horace Kimball were on duty each evening. They handled the crowd and automobiles through one exit as the entertainments closed without trouble or confusion.

This season all tickets were collected at the fair grounds main entrance so no loiterers were allowed about the tent. There was nothing to break in on the programs and this method gave universal satisfaction.

Winfield T. Dougherty, superintendent and announcer has been out three seasons with the Community Chautauqua. They opened in North Carolina June 8 and have been jumping about the eastern United States since, closing early in September. He is a student in the Pennsylvania State College.

Guy W. Wells the assistant, is a graduate of Brown University and making his first trip with an organization of this sort. He is known among the Chautauqua play folk as "Doctor," a term that will be lettered on his shingle after leaving the Cornell Medical school, which he is attending.

Carl Christopher of New York City a student in Columbia College, N. Y., is getting his first general experience trooping as tentman. The work and personal contact with country life is educational and he certainly enjoys every minute—except when taking down in a rain storm.

Benefit of Red Cross

The "Farmerette," which was so greatly liked, is to be repeated August 9th at "Concert Hall" at eight o'clock for the benefit of the Red Cross. Between the acts the following program will be given:

Piano Duet......Adeline DeCoster and Doris Foster
Piano Solo......Ruth Akers
Violin Solo......Clara Shepard
Reading......Mrs. I. K. Moornouse
Piano Solo......Miss Purleston of New York
Dutch Dance......Mildred Curtis and Ethelyn Lasselle

We hope every one will do what they can for so great a cause. Every ticket helps one soldier at the front—so "Do your bit!"

Mrs. Lineus Flint has a beautiful Gloxinia in full bloom with fourteen blossoms. The flowers are large ones and are of a deep red and white.

NEXT WINTER'S PIES

As usual, this Country is to produce berries, fruits and vegetables this Summer in excess of the amount that can be eaten at once, yet the preservation of the surplus is rendered difficult by the fact that the war has caused a shortage of tin and other containers. How then shall this food be kept for later consumption? By dehydration.

This method of preservation has been described repeatedly. The Government, through the Department of Agriculture, gives its approval to dehydration. The term means merely the extraction of water. A great variety of garden and farm products is amendable to this process including apples, apricots, asparagus, bananas, beans, beets, cabbage, cauliflower carrots, celery, corn, grapes, onions, oranges, parsley, parsnips, peaches, pears, peas, potatoes, rhubarb, pumpkins, spinach, squash, tomatoes and turnips.

Nearly every member of the older generation can recall the succulent pies which his or her mother made of dried apples. The old fashioned dried apple pie was a glorious example of the possibilities of dehydration. If the process is properly followed there need be no less of flavor and the product will keep for years.

In former time a great deal of vegetables and fruits has been wasted because of the faulty system of distribution in this Country or because of the manipulations of food speculators. There should be none of this waste this season. Any oversupply that cannot be got to market for use while still fresh should be dried commercially. And this process should be more commonly employed in the homes in places of the old fashioned method of preserving in cans. Food conservation is a general duty.—Chicago News.

RED CROSS CONTRIBUTIONS

The following is a list of subscribers to the Red Cross War Fund which was solicited during the week of July 19th to 26th. In such a long list there are likely to be errors which the secretary will be glad to rectify if the subscribers will communicate with her. It may be well to explain that all persons who became members of the Red Cross during that week and paid their fee of one dollar, were also contributors to the War Fund, as all membership fees during that week were deposited to the credit of Wm. G. McAdoo with the other donations. The total of the contributors was $2,814.10.

Paris Hill has also contributed $445 toward the relief funds.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA AND PEPTIRON PILLS

Conditions that are both scrofulous and anemic are very common. Many persons whose faces are "broken out," cheeks are pale, and nerves are weak, suffer from them.

There is an effective, economical remedy in the combination of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Peptiron Pills, one taken before eating, the other after.

In these medicines taken in this way the best substances for the blood and nerves are brought together.

Dear Editor:

I will write a letter that Mrs. Florence Ellen Harvey's boy wrote, whose age is six years.

Dear Aunt Blanche:

I got your letter all right and I will now try and answer it. I am quite well and hope you are the same. I thank you both very much for the note book. We have got six cats, but no dogs and we have two cows and six hens. No I haven't g... any testament and would like one v...y much. Flora is very cunning now she can walk and almost run. We have had a nice rain and it settled the snow a lot. Papa heard a robin this morning.

I will now close for this time. Hope to hear from you again. Love to yo[u] both.

Dear Editor and Girls and Boys:

I will write a story about a horse whose nome is Prince Charles.

A fine young horse of Mr. Lawrie's was kept at Plumfield, running loose in a large pasture across the brook. All the boys were interested in the handsome spirited creature and for a time were fond of watching him gallop and frisk, with his plumy tail flying and his handsome head in the air. But they soon grew tired of it and left Prince Charlie to himself. All but Dan, he never tired of looking at the horse, and seldom failed to visit him with sugar or an apple to make himself welcome. Charlie was grateful, accepted his friendship and the two loved one another as if they felt some tie between them, inexplicable, but strong. In whatever part of the field he might be, Charles always came at full speed when Dan whistled at the bars, and the boy was never happier than when the beautiful, fleet creature put its head on his shoulder, looking up at him with fine eyes filled of intelligent affection. "We understand one another without any palaver don't we, old fellow?" Dan would say, proud of the horse's confidence and so jealous of his regard, that he told no one how well the friendship prospered and asked no one but Teddy to accompany him on these daily visits.

Mr. Laurie came now and then to see how Charlie got on and spoke of having him broken to harness in the autumn.

"He won't need much taming he is such a gentle, fine tempered brute. I shall come out and try him with a saddle myself some day," he said on one of these visits. "He lets me put a halter on him, but I don't believe he will bear a saddle, even if you put it on", answered Dan, who never failed to be present when Charlie and his master met. "I shall coax him to bear it and not mind a few tumbles at first. He has never been harshly treated so, though he will be surprised at the new performance I think he won't be frightened and his antics will do no harm. I wonder what he would do" said Dan to himself as Mr. Laurie went away with the professor and Charlie returned to the bars from which he had retired when the gentlemen came up.

A daring fancy to try an experiment took possession of the boy as he sat on the topmost rail with the glossy back temptingly near him. Never thinking of danger he obeyed the impulse and while Charlie unsuspectingly nibbled at the apple he held, Dan quickly and quietly took his seat. He did not keep it long however, for with an astonished snout Charlie reared straight up and deposited Dan on the ground. The fall did not hure him for the turf was soft and he jumped up saying with a laugh, "I did it anyway, come here you rascal and I'll try it again." But Charlie declined to approach and Dan left him resolving to succeed in the end, for a struggle like this suited him.

He took the halter the next time and heading him to and fro and putting him through various antics till he was a little tired than Dan sat on the wall and gave him bread, but watched his chance and getting a good grip of the halter, slipped on his back. Charlie tried the old trick, but Dan held on having had practice with Toby, who occasionally had an obstinate fit and tried to shake off his rider.

Charlie was both amazed and indignant and after prancing for a minute set off at a gallop and away went Dan heels over head. If he had not belonged to the class of boys who go through all sorts of dangers unscathed, he would have broken his neck, as it was he got a heavy fall and lay still collecting his wits while Charlie tore round the field, tossing his head with every sign of satisfaction at the discomfort of his rider.

Presently it seemed to occur to him that something was wrong with Dan and being of a magnanimous nature he went to see what the matter was. Dan let him sniff about and perplex himself for a few minutes than he looked up at him saying as decidely as if the horse could understand. You think you have beaten, but you are mistaken old boy and I'll ride you yet, see if I don't.

He tried no more that day, but soon after attempted a new method of introducing Charlie to a burden. He strapped a folded blanket on his back and let him race and rear and roll and fume as much as he liked. After a few fits of rebellion, Charlie submitted and permitted Dan to mount him often stopping short to look around as if he said half patiently, half reproachfully, "I don't understand it, but I suppose y mean no harm so I permit the liberty."

Mr. Laurie was much amused and well pleased with Dan's courage and skill, let him have a hand in all future performances for he set about Charlie's education at once, saying that he was not going to be outdone by a slip of a boy. Thanks to Dan, Charlie took kindly to the saddle and bridle when he had once reconciled himself to the indignity of the bit and after Mr. Laurie had trained him a little, Dan was permitted to ride him to the great envy and admiration of the other boys.

Dear Editor:

As I read the paper and see other children write, thought I would write a short letter. I will first tell what I have for pets. I have a horse, his name is Black Beauty; a calf, her name is Diamond. I am breaking her so I can drive her with a harness. I have a cat, her name is Nigger. I have three sisters, their names are Glenor, Alegura and Nora. One brother, his name is Milo.

I won't write any more this time, hope I will see this printed and want other boys and girls to write so I can read their letters. Herbert W. McAllister, Jr.

SAVE SUGAR IN JELLY MAKING

Much waste of sugar and spoilage of jellies can be avoided by using a simple alcohol test recommended by the Bureal of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture. To determine how much sugar should be used with each kind of juice put a spoonful of juice in a glass and add to it one spoonful of 95 per cent. grain alcohol, mixed by shaking the glass gently. Pour slowly from the glass, noting how the pectin—the substance in fruits which makes them jell—is precipitated. If the pectin is precipitated as one lump a cup of sugar may be used for each cup of juice; if in several lumps the poportion of sugar must be reduced to approximately three-fourths the amount of the juice. If the pectin is not in lumps but is merely precipitated, the sugar should be one-half or less of the amount of the juice. If the juice shows no precipitation under this test, it is unsuitable for jelly making and must be combined with apples or other juices rich in pectin.

The housewife will do well before making the test, to taste the juice, as fruits not as acid as good tart apples probably will not make good jelly unless mixed with other fruits which are acid.

A SONG OF ALBANY BASINS

By Lydia Lord Shedd

Deep in the heart of the Oxford hills
'Neath the blue New England sky,
Where many a bird sweet music trills
Fair Albany Basins lie.
There, born of sweet springs on the mountain side,
And longing to be free,
A brooklet seeking old Ocean's tide,
Craved a passage to the sea.

Long years ago, with a foaming swirl,
And waters eddying to and fro,
Chopping the rocks in ceaseless whirl,
It wore in the granite far below
Deep hollows fit for Diana's bath,
Spinning the barriers to its flow;
And made with ever urgent wrath
An outlet to the plain below.

Then slowly o'er the sloping mead
A welcome rest to take,
Moving with ever lessening speed,
It broadens to a lake.
It lies like a gem in its grassy rim,
With the bright hills just beyond,
With lillies dotting its silver brim,
On its edge, ferns green frond.

Then, onward still to the restless sea,
Blessing the land as it goes,
Murmuring oft of the old pine tree
Where its Mother streamlet rose.
Little it matters how rough the way,
Or how steep the barriers vast,
Or whether through darkness or sunny day,
Since the goal is reached at last.

Today, on the dizzy brink we stand,
And strive within thy deoths to see
If haply we may understand,
And read the lesson taught by thee.
Beyond thy circling granite walls,
The singing brook laughs out in glee;
The robin to his mate calls
From out yon budding tree.

And the spotted trout, with startled eye,
Looks out from bed of moss,
As he sees a shadow on the sky,
Where waving branches toss.
And the murmur of the waterfall
Comes, with its music sweet,
Blending and harmonizing all,
In a melody complete.

And the thoughts of youth to hearts come back,
As we stood in life's morning light,
Looking ahead o'er the shining track,
When all the paths seemed bright.
But now life's sorrow and all its joy,
Time blends into a psalm,
And a peace that holds no base alloy
Brings to our hearts its calm.

O, youth may come, and youth may go,
But still while time shall last
Thy banks in sunset light shall glow,
As in the years long past.
The mists shall rise above thee still,
Like incense to our God,
Sweet with the breath of the wooded hills
And the fragrance of the sod.

IS THERE TRUTH IN THIS?

The Record, being fairly wise in its day and generation, has not lavishly used the publicity stuff sent out by various "benevolent" institutes, societies, associations, and clubs. We speak now of those much advertised associations that seek to advice the public in regard to its health, or that seek to prevent disease, or that desire to shoot us all full of serums and germs before we catch something. Somehow we always have had a mean suspicion that most of these associations were conducted largely for the benefit of certain doctors who seek a medical monopoly in this country. We are glad to discover our suspicions verified by a recent yellow circular from the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

The circular says that there is a national movement on foot to institute a National Medical Examination day for every person, sick or well. It is planned that at least once a year every person in this country be examined by a doctor who will in nine cases out of ten find something wrong with the subject; and who better could be found to rectify the ailment than the examining doctor? The circular naively says: "Out of the thousands who have ben examined and found to be impaired, only 10 per cent. imagined there was anything wrong with them; the remaining 90 per cent. supposed themselves perfectly well."

So once a year it is proposed to herd the people of this nation together for the members of the Medical Association to go over—The cold fact is, that the medical schools of this country have been turning out tens of thousands of doctors for whom there were no patients. It has been increasingly difficult for a doctor to make a living from the normal supply of patients; so the start was made when by law school children were vaccinated, their tonsils excavated, their glands sideswiped, their ears drilled out, and their blessed little tummies thoroughly made over.

But even infantile paralysis fear waves and epidemics of appendicitis—said being frequently merely constipation, and school clinics and health departments costing millions, could not provide enough jobs; and with the automobile, and some new mental creeds, and other revelations keeping the people disgustingly healthy, it becomes necessary not only more closely to watch and ward the public health by law, but to prevent by law any healer healing unless he is a "regular." The latest move in the big plot is to put every person in the nation under the direct power of the members of the American Medical Society, and this is a move that should be checked before it is too late.

The circular closes by saying, "The best way to discover disease early is to have a periodic overhauling of your body at least once a year." Let's have one week a year when everybody has to subscribe at least six daily papers and pay for a year in advance. Isn't a newspaper as much of a necessity as a doctor? And since lawyers and writers and other professions do not have to compel folks by law to support them because they cannot make a living by their own efforts, why should a certain clique of a certain brand of medical theory—not science theory—be given this sort of a strange hold? Nix on that annual examination thing; we have trouble enough now keeping in trim without combating half a million professional fear germs.—The Record, Los Angeles, Cal.

SUGGESTIONS IN REGARD TO HANDLING MILK AFTER IT REACHES THE CONSUMER.

With the approach of hot weather care must be taken in the handling of milk. Very frequently contamination occurs after the milk is delivered to the consumer. A few simple precautions will keep it as clean and pure when finally used as at the time of delivery.

The milk should be received in a well sealed glass package. It should be left in a cool place, free from dogs, flies and other sources of contamination. The bottle should be taken into the house immediately after delivery, and placed in a refrigerator.

Keep the milk in original package and with the temperature below 50 degrees F until used. The mouth of the bottle should be carefully wiped with a clean cloth before pouring out the milk.

Be sure that all receptacles for milk and cream are clean. Never take the milk bottle into a sick room. The bottle ought to be properly washed as soon as empty and should not be used as a container for anything but milk and cream.

Pasteurized milk should be handled as carefully as the raw.

TESTED RECIPES

Pink Fish Balls

One cup salmon chopped with 1 pint of cold boiled potatoes, seasoned with salt and pepper and moistened with enough well-beaten egg to hold the mixture together when shaped in flat cakes. Dip cakes in melted butter, place in a shallow pan and broil under the flame of the broiling burner of a gas range. When one side is well browned, turn and brown on other side. If preferred, thin slices of fat salt pork can be broiled and the fish balls dipped in the fat instead of the butter.

Brown Bread

One cup corn meal, 1 cup rye flour, 1 cup Graham flour, 1 cup white flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda (full), one-half cup molasses, 1 pint sour milk.

Mix dry ingredients together. Mix liquids. Combine mixtures, adding more milk if mixture is too stiff to pour. Steam 3 hours.

Chop Suey Roast

Cook together 1-2 cup macaroni and 1-2 cup rice. When done, drain but do not dry. Fry together 2 or 3 slices of fat pork and 1 or 2 onions. Strain and add fat to the macaroni and rice. Then add 1 pound chopped meat, 1 can Campbell's tomato soup. Mix well. Put in a baking pan, sprinkle with cracker crumbs and bake as long as is required for any meat loaf.

Cereal Apple Pudding

Pour 1 pint of boiling water over 1 cup of granulated wheat, or any preferred cereal. Add 1-2 teaspoon salt and let stand until meal is well swollen, from 2 to 3 hours. Then stir in 3 cups of sliced apple, 1-4 cup sugar and 2 tablespoons flour. Add a little nutmeg and lemon rind and our into a well buttered shallow pan. Bake about 1 hour in a moderate oven. Serve with cream and sugar.

Cheese Fondu

One cup scalded milk, 1 cup soft stale bread crumbs, 1-4 pound mild cheese cut in small pieces, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, yolks 3 eggs, whites 3 eggs. Mix first five ingredients, add yolks of eggs beaten until lemon colored. Cut and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake about 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Bath Molasses Gingerbread

One cup molasses, 2 cups flour, 1-2 cup sour milk, 1-3 cup shortening, 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon ginger. Cook butter and shortening and molasses together until they boil, take from fire, add beaten egg, flour mixed with soda and ginger. Beat thoroughly. Pour at once into buttered pan and bake in a quick oven.

Shredded Wheat Pudding

One shredded wheat biscuit soaked in 1 pint hot milk 1 hour. Add 1-3 cup brown sugar, 1 well beaten egg, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, speck salt, a bit of butter, 1 teaspoon chopped nuts and 1 teaspoon chopped raisins. Bake in a buttered pan, set in hot water about an hour or until firm. Serve with whipped cream.

Left-over Coffee

With the most careful calculation often there is some coffee left over. This may be used in many ways if it is carefully strained from the grounds. It may be used to dilute the egg for next morning's coffee, or for a flavoring in custards and creams, for jellies, or as a liquid in place or with milk in gingerbread, cakes, etc. The following recipe is a pleasing way that coffee may be used:

Coffee Souffle

One and one half cups infusion, 1-2 cup milk, 2-3 cup sugar, one fourth teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine. Mix coffee, milk, 1-2 of the sugar and the gelatine and heat in double boiler. Add remaining sugar, salt and yolks of eggs slightly beaten. Cook until mixture thickens, remove from fire and strain over the whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Add vanilla. Mix very thoroughly and pour into moulds, chill and serve with cream.

WASTE OF DAIRY PRODUCTS IN THE HOME

At this time of universal food conservation I believe it is fitting for me to mention a few of the most common products of the dairy, showing the enormous waste in these articles of food, and giving methods by which they might be utilized.

For example, suppose half a cup of milk is wasted each day in every home in the United States, it would amount to 912,500,000 quarts a year. It takes over 400,000 cows to produce this amount of milk and an army of men to handle and deliver it. Even if half a cup of milk is wasted in only one out of every fifty homes, the total still makes an appalling figure.

This is particularly deplorable when one realizes that milk is one of the most nutritious of foods, and skim-milk is almost as valuable as whole. The skim-milk may be used for soups and cereal dishes, while sour milk can be used for cottage cheese or in making of bread.

In regard to butter, it has been estimated that, if each household in this country wastes only one-fourth of an ounce per day, just one small pat, it would amount to 114,062,500 pounds in the course of a year. The product of over half a million cows, or about 265,261,560 gallons of milk, would be used in making this amount of butter. If only half the above mentioned amount is wasted and probably this estimate is very low, we should still have reason to view the matter with the utmost concern. All butter left on plates after a meal should be collected and used for cooking rather than scraped off into the garbage can.

During the summer months the waste of milk, due to souring, is enormous. This milk should, as I stated above, be utilized. The manufacture of cottage cheese is a convenient way for its disposal. When the milk has soured enough to form a firm curd it should be cut or broken up. Next, heat is applied gradually until the temperature reaches 96 degrees to 100 degrees F. The curd should be stirred gently until this temperature is obtained. The temperature is held at 96 degrees to 100 degrees F. until the curd feels fairly firm and the whey appears clear. Then drain off the whey, place the curd in a cheesecloth bag, and hang it up until the whey has drained out. The curd should next be broken up and salt mixed in to suit the taste.

NO BETTER WAY

"He serves his country best
Who lives pure life, and doeth righteous deed,
And walks straight paths, however others stray;
And leaves his sons an uttermost bequest—
A stainless record which all men may read;
This is the better way.

"No drop but serves the slowly lifting tide,
No dew but has an errand to some flower,
No smallest star but sheds some helpful ray;
And man by man, each giving to all the rest,
Makes the firm bulwark of the country's power;
There is no better way."

Clara Eleanor Curtis, aged 3 years, only child and Guy L. and Lola E. (Herrick) Curtis of Noble's Corner, died early Friday morning, July 27 of tubercular meningitis, being ill but two weeks. She was born June 6, 1914, and developed into a beautiful child, the pride of the home. Everything a specialist could prescribe was done to stay the disease, but without avail.

Rev. Robert J. Bruce of the Norway Congregational church officiated at the services held in the home Sunday afternoon. Beautiful flowers were in profusion. Burial at Norway Pine Grove Cemetery.

John Cleveland is employed at Summit Springs, Harrison for the summer.

Mrs. Bowker and daughter, Stella, of Welchville, were in town Tuesday as guests at Katherine Ramsdell's.

Luther Emerson, who has been employed in Northwestern Canada for several months is in town, but plans to return later.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eisenwinter and son, Charles, left for their home in Waterbury, Conn., Saturday. The two daughters, Gretchen and Ruth, will remain with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bicknell for a longer stay.

Mrs. Frank Buswell will go the last of the week to Skowhegan. The household goods were shipped there several days ago.

Mrs. Nellie Haxby, who has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Victor Whitman, after visiting her mother, Mrs. Carrie Dinsmore, at the G. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, returned to her home in Clarinda, Iowa, Monday. Mrs. Dinsmore is rapidly gaining and expects to return home within a few days.

A McCary dry air refrigerator has been installed in Drake's Spot Cash Store. It measures 3x6x8 feet, is finished in oak with nickel trimmings and a fine bit of workmanship. It contains spaces for lard, cheese, butter, eggs, meats, vegetables and a large ice box on an entirely new principal. The agent claims this to be the only one of its kind in Oxford county.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne J. Jackson passed the week end in Milton. Mrs. Jackson remained for an extended visit with her parents.

Roland Nevers enlisted in the Medical Department of the C. A. C. July 26 and went away with the boys, Friday.

Rev. Edwin Stiles of North Woodstock N. H., is the guest of his father-in law, Benjamin Tucker and family at Norway Lake. Mr. Stiles has been spending his vacation at Winter Harbor. His daughters, Ruth and Doris, who have been spending two weeks with their grandfather, will return home with him soon.

Truman Got Two Falls From Soldier

In a fast wrestling show at Norway Opera House Tuesday evening, Homer Truman, the Norway gamester, lost one fall and cleaned up two in succession from Soldier Katron, the pride of Fort Leavitt. In the preliminary Mike Nadir went a draw then snatched two bumps away from Albert (Spider) Ledger. Johnnie Aspinall polished up Joe Lane with two straight lay outs in the semi finals. One wrestler came out with injured ribs.

In spite of hot weather, about 200 fans assembled for these events and were not disappointed. Nadir, the Syrian, kept in touch with "Spider" Ledger until a draw was called in 25 minutes. In the second bout that went fast, Nadir got his man in 9 min., 45 seconds, but the third was short and sweet, Nadir winning close to the ropes in less than 3 minutes.

Johnnie Aspinall proved too fast for Joe Lane throughout the semi final and crowded his man to the limit. Lane proved strong and had the Swede guessing, but Aspinall's strength mixed with his previous mat experience worked off the trick that closed the bouts in 4 min., 30 sec., and the second in about the same time.

In the main contest the interest settled about the Portland visitor who was a stranger and an unknown in these parts. Truman's wrestling ability needed no exploiting. Soldier Katron, the Greek, entered the ropes weighing 142 pounds, it is claimed, while Homer tipped 159 pounds and fresh from the hayfield. The first engagement opened with a brisk rifle fire from both trenches and the crowd were not slow to learn that this soldier was no piker on the mat. He had the Norway lad on the jump early in the engagement with some hot shot that looked good for a hit several times before a bull's eye was plunked by the coast artillery boy in 13 min., with a Nelson hold.

The second round started with Truman crowding his opponent. Business was good the first few seconds, so good in fact that Homer rushed the soldier into a body scissors clinched high about the arms and chest, winning out in 2 min.

During the third struggle the Fort Leavitt chap played more slowly, apparently suffering with his side, yet his skill was not lessened and the game went merrily on. Homer played strong toward the ropes, having less trouble to keep on his pegs. Several times the army Sampson lifted Truman and plastered him down, but failed to stick both shoulders flat. Homer got his man in 10 min., with a head scissors.

After the smoke of battle cleared it was discovered that Katron's ribs were injured, the accident happening near the end of the second round. The chap realized that he was hurt, but pluckily kept at it without complaint until the end. A local surgeon attended him in the dressing room and adjusted the dislocated ribs and strained muscles. In a ringside speech Katron had challenged Truman for a match in two weeks at Norway Opera House or any other place. The offer was accepted but this accident may change the complexion of things.

Soldier Katron enlisted at Toledo, Ohio in April and was transferred to Fort Leavitt. He has been a professional welter weight for nine years and carries a gold watch fob medal inscribed to the effect that he secured the title by winning battles through the middle west. Without proper facilities at the Fort he has not worked the game since entering the service, but promises to find a way to come back and show his real speed on the next visit. Sergt. John C. Collins came up with him as manager. Both proved to be good losers and the real type of sportsmen.

Frank Rollins and Kid Stanley both of Norway acted as referees, Frank Stairs of this town promoted the matches. The heartiest supporters of the Norway champion must admit that Soldier Katron is without any doubt the fastest mat artist seen on our boards. His inside knowledge of wrestling is unquestioned and the sporting blood one hundred per cent. to the good.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Gurney and daughters, Nellie and Cora, spent the weeks-end with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gurney at West Minot. The Gurney brothers with their father, Fred E. Gurney of Hebron, continued to Augusta where they passed Sunday with Private Geo. Gurney, Co. D, at Camp Keyes.

Horace Cole and T. P. Richardson have been helping Levi Richardson with his haying on the Richardson farm over Crockett Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Marr and son were Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Everett's. Private Henry Stone, Co. D, also made a short visit during his furlough.

Mrs. R. DeBall, 76 years of age, who occupies the Frank Hurd rent, Pleasant street, fell over the door steps recently, spraining an ankle and injuring a rib. She is recovering slowly, but will be unable to walk for some weeks.

No preaching services will be held in the Norway Baptist church during August. Sabbath school as usual every Sunday afternoon with the Christian Endeavor services each Thursday evening at the church. Rev. G. Howard Newton and family have opened their cottage at Cape Porpoise for a month.

Ida Merrill was at Camp Keyes, Augusta, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Shepard and family entertained an Auburn auto party at Hillcrest Farm Cottage, Lake Pennesseewassee, Sunday. Among those who enjoyed this generous hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bumpus, Charles Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Goss, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bigelow, Mr. and Mrs. Woodman.

Doris Shepard has given up her position with the Norway Shoe Co., and will have a vacation until the family return to Auburn in September.

Noble's Corner.

The people of this vicinity were greatly saddened at the death of Clara Curtis, the three year old daughter of Guy and Lola Curtis, which occurred July 27. She was loved by all who knew her.

It is hoped that every woman will make a special effort to be present and that she will bring pencil and paper.

THE RED CROSS

By Agnes H. Fuller of Oxford

In 1859 thirty thousand French, Italian and Austrian wounded lay in agony for days on the battlefield at Solferino while the campaign went on. Nurses there were none. They were unheard of. Preparations for the handling of the wounded were unkown. There was no agreement of any sort giving the medical corps protection.

A Swiss tourist, Henri Dunant, looked on the torture chamber of neglected horrors shown on that battlefield and wrote a tract "Souvenir de Solferino" with which he made such an impression on the minds of European rulers that he managed to get the powers to send delegates to a conference at Geneva, October, 1863, to discuss methods of relieving the sick and wounded in war.

The result was a treaty signed by fourteen nations the following year, known as the Geneva Convention, or the Red Cross Treaty. It provided that each government extend its sanction, authority and protection to volunteer relief organizations in time of war; that the privileges of neutrality be extended by all belligerents to the ambulances, hospitals, doctors, nurses, and all persons attached to the medical relief corps of the armies; and, finally, that the Red Cross, now familiar to all and respected by all but savages and Teutons, should be the universal insigna of volunteers in care of the wounded.

It seems incredible that this simple Christian idea is hardly more than half a century old; but no more astonishing than that we depended upon unskilled, undisciplined and unorganized amateur endeavor to care for our own soldiers during the Civil War, that men lay for days waiting till the insufficient—and too often inefficient—hospital staffs could attend to them, that thousands died for lack of proper bandages, dressings, medicines, and in some cases even shelter.

Many suppose that the Government of the United States has some department to meet this most exacting of all services in the field, has enormous stores of bandages, beds, stretchers, blankets, and medical supplies. It has not. Many may think that the Government has some provision to meet the suffering and destitution of great fires or floods. It has not, unless the help of the regular army which has been called on several occasions is counted. This is practically all done by volunteer work, and until this work was highly organized, and supplies and trained men held in readiness, the help given was of little substantial value.

In this country, Henri Dunant's idea gathered force slowly. In 1877, a few patriotic and benevolent citizens appointed themselves a committee to further the interests of the Red Cross. They kept the idea alive, but they could not represent or organize a nation. In 1881 they were incorporated as "The American Association of the Red Cross". In 1893 the name was changed to the American Red Cross.

This country did not even sign the Treaty of Geneva until 1882, and this question, today recognized as going to the very vitals of the nation, did not become of national concern until 1900. In the meanwhile the Association struggled on as a kind of private charity, undertaking the impossible, and bravely assuming the duties of the whole people.

During these years, years of peace for our nation, the conception of the scope of the work which should be done by such a national organization was greatly changed. War is not the only scourge of mankind that overwhelms beyond the hope of private charity. The arrival of the Red Cross with supplies and charity at the appalling scene of the Johnstown Flood made an impression that has never been forgotten. It became evident to all thinking men that it was not only essential to be ready for national disaster, to make it somebody's business to be ready, but that it would be criminal negligence not to be ready. If you had lived in Dayton, Ohio, when the whole city was washed away and vandals came in as the water receded from your ruined home, and drowned neighbors, you would know the Red Cross. It was in command. It supplied food and houses, nurses, business, and protection; money and trained men; meat and drink. Read the story of the last decade. It includes the San Francisco earthquake and fire, the Chinese famine, the Mississippi floods and the Messina earthquake. It is the story of the Monongah Mine disaster and the wreck of the Titanic, the Serbian typhus campaign and the Eastland disaster.

In 1898 when scores of Maine men lay sick at Chickamauga, the hospital corps in charge of a hospital with accommodations for five hundred had been supplied with just two clinical thermometers. It would take days, if not weeks, for more thermometers swathed in official red tape to be procured from the government. The commissary had pork and hardtack, salt beef and coffee, but the medical stores contained no liquid foods, nor many other things essential to the men who had been stricken down. One day a Red Cross outfit rolled into camp, set up its tent, and the men in charge appeared before the surgeons in charge of the hospital asking, "What can we do for you? What do you need?" Twenty-four hours later thermometers by the dozen and medical supplies by the case were delivered to the surgeons. A scant year ago Maine men were taken to the Mexican border, taken from a cool land of pure water to a country of arid heat and tepid alkali water, and no provision was made for a sanitary water supply. Again a Red Cross outfit rolled into camp with the same questions, "What can we do for you? What do you need?" The answer was, "These men came from a State where it is safe and satisfying to drink out of almost any spring, pond, or stream; they are suffering from the heat and from lack of water." It was only a matter of hours before teams loaded with spring water from the mountains were driving into camp. The Red Cross had the money to buy what was needed in the open market, it did not have to wait for requests to go through official channels, not for the letting of contracts.

Some two years ago I read a letter from a surgeon then serving with an American Red Cross unit at a base hospital in Cosel. He said in part, "We have an average of seven hundred patients in a hospital intended for five hundred. Every day brings more from the front. Most of the men do not reach the base hospital until several days after they are wounded, so all wounds have suppurated. We manage to sterilize our instruments between operations, but it is impossible to get enough surgical towels and there is no chance to wash what we have, so one towel frequently has to be used for a dozen to fifteen operations."

It is such over-crowded, under-supplied hospitals that many of our men who go to France must be taken. It is the Red Cross that will do all that can be done to supply those hospitals, to give proper care and comfort to those men. For in 1905 the Red Cross was reorganized by Act of Congress into the official relief organization of the United States of America. It is the only organization that can operate to give volunteer aid to the sick and wounded in case of war. It is the recognized official medium for communication between the Army and Navy and the people. The President of the United States is at the head of it. The Army and Navy are represented upon its board and depend upon it. It is a voluntary organization of the people of the United States for meeting national calamity of any kind. It belongs to you, the people of the United States.

Today our calamity is war, a national calamity and an international one as well. The greatest and most appalling task in the history of the world now confronts the Red Cross. Within a few months an army of 1,000,000 and a navy of 150,000 of our men will be in service. The Red Cross must prepare for their needs in advance. Doctors, nurses, ambulances must be ready. Hospital stores, linen, bandages, pillows, pads, surgical shirts, pajamas and dressings must be made. It is the dollars of the American men barred from service by unfitness and the fingers of loyal American women that must help the Red Cross to prepare.

How?

By paying one dollar and joining the nearest Red Cross Auxiliary. By turning in to that auxiliary every clean-washed old sheet, pillow case, apron, towel, and lace curtain that you have. By ravelling out old sweaters, washing the yarn and knitting wristers or socks according to directions which the Red Cross will furnish. By getting the nearest auxiliary to furnish you with cut-out and ready-to-sew garments. By someone's putting a sewing machine into this schoolhouse and everyone that can meeting here one afternoon a week to work. By getting up small entertainments and turning the proceeds in toward purchasing things that must be purchased.

We cannot all of us furnish a fighting man, become nurses, or even fill clerical positions, but we can stand behind those who can.

Are you ready to do your bit?

WHY A PLAYER?

How many times do people say that they'd like to have "life to live over again?" Sort of a foolish wish. What's past is gone and regretting isn't going to bring it back not one inch or one second nearer.

What are the things YOU would like to bring back? Are you sorry you didn't have a musical education? Many people have been so busy doing things, they couldn't exercise their talents much. They found other work to do—more pressing work.

The Playerpiano is for people of that kind—for people who DIDN'T HAVE THE CHANCE—or who wouldn't take it. But—the Playerpiano fills in that gap of things you've wished for. It supplies music to you—BY YOUR OWN EFFORTS—that's maybe better than you would have learned it even if you'd studied and practised.

And it gives you that satisfaction of having a piano in your home. It makes it LIKE OTHER HOMES. It's a lot better than looking into the fire, and wondering WHY you hadn't improved your opportunities a good deal. It's better than a home SILENT for lack of music. It seems as though you'd let more LIGHT into your home and captured it, to feed it out just as your desires tell you to. The PLAYERPIANO is the bridge that connects today with what MIGHT HAVE BEEN in the long ago!

Pianos, Playerpianos and Organs. New music rolls every month. Send for catalogues.

BIG BARN DOOR SKETCHES

Pictorial, Taxatorial, Pastorial and Rural as Seen Between Loads of Hay and Song of Mosquitos at Meredith Center, N. H.

I got hold of a big pickerel the other morning and broke the bamboo pole short off five feet from the tip. Accident occurred on Upper Dam Pond. I returned home and hunted up the man-killing pickerel slayer of my youth.

It was found resting on the girts in the loft over the hay and is almost 16 feet long and of hemlock growth. Father made it years and years ago. When built it was the wonder of the neighborhood and far in advance of anything of the like in this vicinity, and even now it is not lacking in good looks.

It is adorned with a brass reel riveted on the butt, U shaped carpet tacks for guides and a horn tip at the top through which the line run. In its day it received flattering compliments from such noted fishermen as Monroe Robinson, Asa McIntire, John Mooney Cate, David Webster and others.

I skipped the bait two continuous hours over the placid water among lily pads and not a legal lengthed fish was caught. Came home, bathed in opedildoc and waited results. Some lame next morning, but not serious.

Chas. E. Osgood, whose duties it is to furnish food for the family, used the pole then next day and took five pickerel and has since been complaining of aches and pains. The pole is a man-killer all right.

Have sent Walter to Meredith Village, three and seven-tenths miles and bought a light bamboo pole and some hooks for 17 cents and am now doing business with lighter equipment with equally satisfactory results. The famous pole of early days has now gone back to roost in the barn and waits for a stronger generation.

Nigger Pond has been visited four times and responded to fish on three of the days. Pickerel must be 12 inches long. Total number of legal fish 10 and only one of them exceeded 15 inches. Time was when pickerel were plenty and of big size, but that was before the time of submarines and one or two boats only were on the pond. I have counted ten water going crafts in going half way round the pond.

Fish Warden, Carl F. Dolloff, son of Fred and grandson of John S. Dolloff, old tax collector, lives at the head of the pond and keeps a vigilant eye for law breakers. He has been in the service three years and wears a badge, easily accessible, hid away on his person. He is a plain-clothes fellow and goes scantily clad except in the majesty of the law.

E. C. Berry of Farmington, N. H., is his running mate, wore black coat and a stiff hat and industriously bailed water to keep the boat afloat while Carl plied the oars. This was while they visited me.

Our catch was inspected and license examined and I was told they had jurisdiction over all the fish in all the waters of all the state. They had made 17 arrests thus far this season and are on the job every day and receive a stated salary with no share in the fines.

Up to this writing Walter and I have devoted six days to fishing and have got (estimate) three pounds of dressed fish. Have skipped bait over pads in Wickwas, Kelley and Pickerel Ponds.

Have paid the state $3.00 for fish licenses and $8.50 for use of roads. Many of which are dangerous because of bushes allowed to stand on bends and sharp turns. This could easily be remedied.

Law-rock in Picked Hill Cove is lost. I can't find it. Smith Lawrences is dead and so is Lane Plummer. Frank Shaw possibly might know where it is but as he was in Canada at the time of the Perley vs. Marshall and Water trial, he has no first hand knowledge of it.

Dr. Perley was to lower the water in the pond by cutting a canal through the Bay Wood and thus keep the water at the same level it was before the new dam was built. The rock with the drill hole was the old high-water mark and was the foundation on which the damage suit hinged.

When viewed by the jury it showed unmistakable evidence of having recently been made and was not so ancient as claimed by the plaintiffs. All the neighbors in town who were friendly with the defense were accused of doing it and the others were equally certain the mark had been recently made in the interests of Dr. Perley regardless of water conditions.

The jury after many days of solemn deliberation concluded the new dam had not been raised and the marking on the rock was spurious. I want to see the rock now. It has been lost. I'll make one more search to find it and possibly a sizable pickerel near it.

Time was when I could catch pouts while standing on a big rock in Picked Hill Cove. The rock is now there but the water is not. A forty foot pole would barely reach open water. The dam is no lower than formerly, but vegetable growth has been busy for the past fifty years and has made twenty feet of reasonably solid land front of the rock.

In another fifty years little or no water will be in Picked Hill Cove and the Caribous children will haul hay out of it and dull their scythes on "the law-rock." Who knows? It is reasonable.

I sometimes wish people would let me alone and keep out from under foot. A few years ago I visited New Hampton Institution, where I attended school before my shoulders became stooped and hair gray and was invited to see the new library building I gladly accepted and looked over the structure and made comments on its architectural beauty and convenient internal arrangements and on the shelves I found lots of books that I was once familiar with. They were old friends of mine and I much desired to renew my acquaintance with them and look through their pages, but was prevented by the over ambitious librarian, who was possessed with the idea that she must expatiate and extol everything under the roof and entertain me with all the newest things and latest books and modern conveniences until in despair I became disgusted and left.

I would liked to have been left alone with the books and renewed forgotten acquaintances, but it was no use, the librarian—a faded old girl—acted as though she thought herself to be the whole show and that I was either a thief or a fool.

I go there no more.

"And General Grant madly dashed down the line on foaming horse amid the flying bullets and asked if John Polly was in the ranks—and he was—'so let the battle go' said the General, it went on and we won."

Recently I met the reputed author of the above in Colebrook, N. H., and had the pleasure of bowing to him with uncovered head. The remark is truly great!

We need a lot of John Pollys in ranks at the present time.

A near neighbor keeps two flocks of hens. One belongs to the man and the other to the wife Have been buying eggs of the lady of the house and the other night I asked for five dozen and was brought out only one and a half dozen. This she said was all she had, but if I must have the full number she would see Warren (her husband) as perhaps he might spare some.

Warren was seen and the five dozen were got at 38c per dozen. Inquiry showed that the Mr. and Mrs. were separately engaged in the hen and egg industry and had been so for years. There is much rivalry to see who will make their flock pay best. Have a notion the Mrs. gets more money from her flock than Warren. She has the handling of the eggs for home use and both are supposed to contribute equally, but Warren says his egg basket is little nearer at hand in the pantry than hers.

"When father died he willed me and sister Phoebie 'the Crockett Pasture,' you know where that is, as you used to help drive young stock there; your uncle Sullivan owned it and sold it to my father.

"Some years ago sister Phoebie needed the money and my son, Herman, paid a hundred dollars for her interest. Taxes have been increasing until we had to pay more than $20.00 per year. Herman thought we'd better sell the pine and reduce expenses and we have sold it to Mr. Huckins of New Hampton for $3,000 and he has three years to get it off and we've got the land left."

I recently listened to the above conversation. There is nothing wonderful or out of the usual in it. It gently expresses the feeling of overtaxation which is commendable and proper and the thoughtless would exclaim: "Three thousand dollars of property and a little over $20.00 tax per year. Not half taxed! Why don't the assessors get after such property and tax it as they should and according to law?"

The conversation offers a text for a sermon on the enormity of modern taxation. It shows an injustice that should be remedied and can be when the people realize the situation.

You say at once this particular pine lot has not borne its share of the public burden and fly to the assessor and clamor for an increase in the valuation of this class of property. Sure you do and don't you deny it. Your breath is taken away when you hear of a neighbor who has sold a timber lot for two to four times its assessed value and you immediately want a new board of assessors and can hardly wait for town meeting day to come.

What are the facts in the case cited. The lady didn't say she was over-taxed. She expressed it as stated above, but seemed to think she had outwitted the assessors and escaped unreasonable taxation and was apparently happy and satisfied in that conclusion.

I'm the one who is doing the kicking as the principal of taxation as applied to wood and timber is unfair and unjust and should be changed. Here is a case where an excessive tax has been cheerfully paid. Here are the facts as far as ascertainable.

The averaged assessed value on this pasture for the first ten years was $250.00 per year; the next ten was $400.00; the third decade $800.00 and the last 15 years $1,050.00. The total tax paid in 45 years, average rate $1.50 on $100.00 is $498.50. No account has been taken of interest. Almost 16% of the selling price of the pine has been paid in taxes.

I call it excessive. No question about it.

Mr. Huckins has now bought it and there is no excuse for him not paying taxes on the purchase price of $3,000.00. He has three years to get it off. If in his judgement he can afford to allow it to remain three years and pay $150.00 per year for the privilege then the total amount of taxes paid will be $948.50, which is almost 32 per cent. on what he paid for it.

Is that fair to the growers, operators and users of lumber?

Should Mr. Huckins clear it in one year then the tax will represent almost 22 per cent. of this price paid.

It is too much.

Five per cent. of the market value of merchandise is considered a heavy tax.

I hear much said about "conservation," whatever that may mean and the government and state experts are ranging the rural districts exorting on "conservation" of forests, wood and timber and the peril and waste of fire and insects, but little is said on over taxation of this class of property and why?

There is a reason.

Not until the wood and timber is cut should it be taxed. Then it ought to bear its fair proportion of the public burden based on actual market value. Every cord of wood or bark or timber, in fact all products of the forest should pay a tax when it is used, but not when growing.

Why not?

"Keep the hoe away from potatoes when setting," was the order from the farm boss. I knew hens would set, but was not aware the habit had got into the potato patch. Something new to learn on a farm every day.

Hereafter I'm to lock the barn when I leave so to keep the mosquitos in and the girls out. When I return from fishing I find the table loaded with feminine gear, crochet work, tatting, dress patterns and blueberry pails. Strange you can't be let alone this hot weather.

The dog "Jack" is guarding a bushel of potatoes in the barn. He is chained to the basket. Arsenate of lead is being spread in the field. The dog resents the indignity as the potatoes cost only $2.50. Mother is consoling him with a promise of a ride to New Hampton this evening.

In East Stoneham, Maine, where the overhead sign says: "Look out for the children," as though they were dangerous animals, I saw hitched to a stake a 1917 auto plate. Someone said the finder or looser should have advertised in the Norway paper. That would have been proper as it would have reached more people. The finder however was advertising it. The Maine register plate was hitched with a string to a stake and the stake driven in the ground near the road and every passerby could see it. This was advertising, nothing less. The car shot by so quickly I did not catch the number or I would state it here and try and help the looser to find it.

EMPIRE GROVE CAMP MEETING

The Methodist Camp meeting at Empire Grove is to be held August 11th to 19th inclusive. Plans are well under way for a meeting of more than usual interest in addition to the common order of service, some special features will be introduced and special speakers will be heard. Prominent among such features are four special days. Tuesday, Aug. 14th will be Sunday School Day, when Teacher Training, Home Department and Missionary work will be considered by the District Superintendents of those departments, also Rev. C. J. Brown will speak of Evangelism in the Sunday school.

Wednesday is to be Woman's Day and Mrs. H. A. Clifford of Portland will speak of "Woman's Work in the Church" and Mrs. Althea Quimby, State President of the W. C. T. U. will address the afternoon meeting in the interests of that work.

Farmers' Day is Thursday and all farmers, their families and friends will be interested to hear Prof. H. P. Mitchell of the State University of Maine as he speaks of the "Boy on the Farm," and in the afternoon, to hear Hon. Bert M. Fernald of the U. S. Senate, who is to speak to the people of matters of great importance to every citizen.

Friday is National Day. Rev. W. F. Berry of the Civic League speaks in the morning, and Hon. Harry Manser in the afternoon, discusses "The Church and National Welfare." These special days will be of vital interest. The other days of the meeting will have sermons and addresses by local pastors and others. Let it be noted that contrary to the usual custom, the first Sunday will be of special interest for Rev. Geo. B. Dean of Philadelphia, Superintendent of the department of Evangelism of the Board of Home Missions, is expected to be present and preach. The last Sunday, Aug. 19, Dr. C. H. Stackpole of Dedham, Mass., will be the preacher of the afternoon.

A feature of marked interest will be the Bible Lectures to be given at the 9 o'clock services each morning by Rev. E. H. Brewster of Auburn. These will be very helpful and should have a large hearing. There are to be, also, a series of brief addresses on "The Home" given each afternoon.

Rev. H. S. Trueman of Bethel has charge of the singing and Miss Bertha Springer is to be organist, which insure good work in that department. Children's work will be in charge of Mrs. W. H. Varney, who is experienced in that form of service.

The location and character of the grounds make this Empire Grove an ideal place for rest, recreation and worship.

OXFORD

Mrs. Alice Benecke of New York is visiting her mother, Mrs. Lina Cass.

The Circle picnic supper on Wednesday, July 25th, in the M. E. vestry was largely attended and a jolly good time was enjoyed. Next circle will meet with Mrs. J. W. Dunn, Aug. 8.

Clarence Brown was in town Tuesday, calling on his old friends. He led the Tuesday evening meeting.

Mrs. Georgia Cole, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. John Chadbourne, went home Friday. She took her goods that were packed at her mother's and is going to housekeeping.

Rev. Harold Faulkingham prepared a series of discourses for his people and by invitation of the pastor gave one in the M. E. vestry Tuesday evening, July 31. Subject, "Are we under the law."

Mrs. Cash was home from Portland a few days.

Services in the Congregational church will be suspended through the month of August.

Dr. E. B. Holden has gone to Indianapolis, where he is in training, pending the call for service for his country.

A. J. Holden was on Poland Camp grounds, Saturday.

Leslie Smith is in the C. M. G. Hospital.

Price Morris, George Thomas and Albert Kay were home from Poland Springs Sunday.

Rev. Malcom McKay and wife started Monday morning on their month's vacation trip.

Alton Wheeler and Mrs. Lola Walker spoke on the high school campus Monday evening in the interest of women suffrage.

Alice Towne of Everett, Mass., is visiting at Henry Judkins'.

Hannah Monson is spending her vaca with her brother, Frank Monson.

Velzora Fields is visiting her mother in Portland.

Mrs. Elliott of East Otisfield invited the Campfire Girls to her cottage on the shore of Lake Thompson, Saturday. They reported a fine time and a treat of cake and ice cream.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Three of the guests of Oak Lodge crossed over to the south shore last Saturday evening and accepted the hospitalities of Prof. Sanford's tent for the night, also for breakfast Sunday morning.

Mrs. and Miss Butterfield of Oneonta, N. Y., took their departure from Oak Lodge Monday for their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Weeks, daughter Beatrice and Bertha F. Howard of Brockton arrived at Oak Lodge on Monday afternoon after a leisurely motoring tour along the Atlantic Beaches and a quiet stop-over in Portland Sunday night.

Prof. Sanford and Mondell Butterfield late campers on Bear Pond, left on Wednesday for two weeks at Camp Wyone on Long Lake, east shore.

The last two weeks have been notable in the guest record of Oak Lodge for the unusual number of talented singers and instrumentalists, who have contributed freely to the general pleasure. The personelle of the gifted group of performers were Mrs. and Miss Allen and Ruth Wade, vocalists and organ accompanists; Mondell Butterfield, star cornet soloist; Prof. Sanford, flute; Leone Moors, violin. The penetrating tones of the cornet and the combined harmonies are said to have charmed the ears of appreciative listeners in several village homes.

Porter Glines, who has been at Mechanic Falls since last winter, came home Saturday to harvest his hay crop which is abundant this year.

Late news from Arnold Abbott, Marine Corps, League Island, Philadelphia, tells of a visit of the boys to the scene of the winter encampment of Washington's army at Valley Forge and a trip to a rifle range in Maryland for shooting practice.

WEST PERU.

Mrs. Lowell Shaw, who is ill with a bad cold, is a little better.

Mrs. Linus Libby had an ill turn this week.

John Magoon was a recent guest of his sister, Mrs. Gerald Tracy.

Blueberrying parties report that the berries are not plentiful, as yet.

Crops are looking well.

SOUTH HIRAM.

Clinton Durgin

A shocking accident occurred in this vicinity Saturday afternoon when Clinton Durgin, a highly respected farmer, met his death by a fall in his barn. He was hurrying to unload his hay for there seemed a shower coming and in coming down from the scaffold he missed his footing on the ladder and plunged downward, striking on the back of his head. He never regained consciousness, but passed out into the Great Beyond about 10 o'clock that night. It seems doubly hard for his wife as their oldest son, Roscoe, a very estimable young man, enlisted in the army in the early spring and is now stationed at Washington, D. C.

Besides his wife and oldest son, he leaves a daughter, Mary, and a younger son, Maurice, two brothers, Will and John, besides a large circle of friends.

He was a good husband, a kind and indulgent father and a man who will be greatly missed.

Mrs. Ida Sargent and two boys returned, Monday from Augusta, where she has been the guest of her brother, Sidney Douglass, who is in the Government service.

HARRISON

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Seavey from Palisade Park, New Jersey, with a musical friend, A. Reisener from New York City, were at The Harrison several days the past week and calling upon relatives and friends meanwhile, here in town. Mr. Seavey for many years traveled with Sousa's and Gilmour's Bands as a Bass Tuber player, and for the past fourteen years has played double bass in orchestra for the Columbia Phonograph Co. of New York City. Mr. Seavey is a native of Waterford, but spent a good many years in younger life in our little town and has many friends here.

Herbert R. Dennison is at his home on Dawe's Hill for a time.

Mrs. J. C. Edgerley was called to East Saugus, Mass., the past week, by the illness and death of the Hon. H. H. Atherton, a friend who died of acute indigestion. Mr. Atherton was one of the owners of The Harrison House and has spent many summers here in town.

J. C. Edgerley has rented the Anna E. Smith place of Prof. Merrill of Belmont, Mass., for a term of ten years, we understand.

Mrs. Marshall Pitts is visiting relatives in Norway and incidentally attending the Chautauqua meetings and concerts being held there at this time. Mr. Pitts was in Norway for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Flint and Alanson Dawes spent the day Sunday with relatives in South Paris. Josephine P. Ricker acted as organist at the Congregational church in Mrs. Flint's absence.

Leo Jackson has a position as chauffeur for a party of summer people who are summering at Waterford.

The ladies of the Congregational parish will hold their annual sale of aprons, fancy articles, homemade candies, home cooked food, etc., in the vestry Thursday afternoon and evening August 9th.

EAST FRYEBURG.

Mrs. Lizzie Holt and niece of Providence, R. I., are visiting at F. A. Holt's.

The thunder shower of August 21 was the most severe known in this vicinity for years, the rain and hail did a good deal of damage to crops, the roads are badly washed and the lightning struck in a good many places but didn't do much damage, only to Amos McIntire's house which was torn to pieces quite a lot.

Mrs. Gladys Brooks and son of Brownfield are visiting her father, H. W. Lord.

W. C. Douglass is improving in health so to be out of doors every day.

Mrs. E. W. Pike is very poorly.

Mrs. Anna Allen has gone to Denmark to visit her daughter, Mrs. Maynard Wentworth.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Abbott of Fryeburg Center were at Willie Berry's, Sunday.

Mrs. Miranda Severance and son Geo. are at her father's, J. J. Poke's. George has joined the Neal Dow Battery and is expecting to start at once for Brunswick where they will go into training.

O. W. Osgood has sold his farm to a man from South Portland and has moved into the Joe Chadbourne house for the present.

Mrs. Henlen Florentine from Boston is visiting her sister, Mrs. Amanda Warren who is quite sick.

Mrs. Lizzie Harnden remains very ill, requiring the services of a trained nurse.

Averill Harnden is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Lee Milliken of Hiram.

Mrs. Foster Smith and daughter Anne of Roxbury, Mass., visited at C. E. Smith's, last week.

Mrs. Winnie Hanscome who has been caring for Mrs. W. C. Douglass and little son, have returned home.

WEST BUCKFIELD

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradbury and Horace Burr Smith are at Thomas Bradbury's.

Mrs. R. J. Warren of North Buckfield, spent Wednesday at Harry Buck's.

Fred Tainter tuned Mrs. P. M. Bennett's piano, Thursday.

Mrs. E. V. Pearson and Beatrice, Mrs. P. M. Bennett and children spend Friday at Harry Buck's.

Dorothy Buck visited her classmate, Olive Keene in Hebron last week. Friday night they took supper with another classmate, Helen Lowell and Sunday afternoon they spent at her home.

Everett Harlow came down from Rumford, Sunday, and is at J. V. Pearson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bennett and Rachel of East Peru, were guests at Fred Bennett's, Sunday.

Fred M. Cooper took an auto ride to South Paris last week. He is much improved.

HARBOR.

James Blake of South Paris has been a guest at W. E. Benson's.

S. F. Claflin of Manchester has made his annual trip through here as agent for papers and magazines.

C. E. Stanley took W. C. Emery and family to Mechanic Falls, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hurd and Mrs. C. E. Stanley and son Stuart made a trip to Rumford Falls in the Hurd car, recently.

R. J. Thompson and Thomas Hall exchanged work haying.

Mary Hall is attending summer school at Farmington.

FUND FOR NEAL DOW BATTERY

Through the interest of the older men of Fryeburg in providing for the welfare of the boys in Battery D (Neal Dow Battery) of the 1st Regiment Maine Heavy Field Artillery after they shall have left home, a movement has been set on foot to raise a battery fund. The beginning which has been made toward the obtaining of $2000 or $3000 by subscription has indeed been auspicious. Col. Fred N. Dow of Portland for whose father this battery was named started the fund with a check for $100, which was received by Capt. Hugh W. Hastings, Thursday.

The local men who have taken up the matter of securing this money have already been in communication with prominent citizens in all the other communities from which men have enlisted in the Dow battery. The battery is fortunate in having more than a score of these towns from which contributions may be expected to come. It is very likely there will be several gifts of $100 or so, but the bulk of the fund will probably be raised with much smaller amounts running from 25c to $10. If 400 people, for instance, gave an average of five dollars a piece, the battery will have the tidy sum of $2000 laid away to help it overcome some of the difficulties it is bound to meet during its period of service.

The battery fund is used altogether for the benefit of the enlisted men of the organizations, non-commissioned officers and privates. It is administered by the five commissioned officers, and is drawn upon to provide comforts for the men which are not included in the provision made for them by the Government. The expense of additional food supplies and of improvement in the camp equipment is borne by the company fund. In fact, this money may be expended for almost any purpose which will benefit the battery as a whole.

It is essential, therefore, that the Dow Battery have this reserve fund in its pocket, so to speak, as soon as possible, for within a few days it will have been called into camp. Any person interested to contribute to the fund should communicate with Captain Hugh W. Hastings, commanding the Dow Battery, or to Edward E. Hastings, Esq., at Fryeburg.

Cottage Studio Notes

Now for Dollar Day August 11th

It will only cost you one dollar to try our work and get either one portrait 8 x 10 or one cabinet folder or three half cabinet folders. This is a big offer and much less than our regular price.

Besides we are making a reduced price on dozen orders, crayons, small copies, or any kind of portrait work that we make.

Berry Pickers Wanted

33 1-3% Increase In Prices Paid

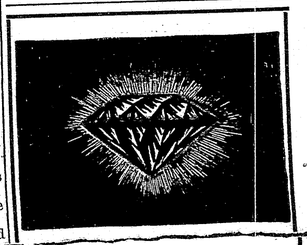

I have fifteen acres of cultivated Raspberries to be picked in August and the prospect is that the crop will be the heaviest for many years. I expect to get at least fifty thousand baskets and am prepared to take care of several thousand more.

I shall need a very large number of pickers about August 10th. Berries are very late this season. Nearly three weeks later than usual.

I can board about thirty-five at the farm house. Board furnished at $3.50 per week. I will give a discount of $1.00 per week on the board bill to all good pickers who stay until the picking season is over. This will make the board cost only $2.50 per week and the price paid for picking will be 2c per pint instead of 1½c per pint basket, the price I have paid for many years.

LOVELL

Red Cross Appeal

There are now enrolled as members of the Lovell Auxiliary of the American Red Cross over fifty people. This is most inspiring, when one considers that the auxiliary was formed so short a time ago as July 20th. The organization hopes to have soon the names of every man and woman in Lovell, for this is a cause in which every patriotic citizen may have an opportunity to show his loyalty to the great cause for which the Red Cross stands.

The American Red Cross,—as someone has aptly stated, is "the patent safety device on the huge engine of modern warfare," and its object is to cut down the terrible human waste—to preserve life, and build it back into the structure of civilization.

It is not a charity, as many people think, but an organization to help our soldiers and encourage our allies. We owe increasing gratitude to those who have fought so bravely to preserve not only the freedom of Europe, but the freedom of our own United States. If it had not been for them, Germany would now be mistress of the seas and the United States but a mere paun in the gigantic game of chess which Kaiser William attempted to play.

To quote Mr. Dawson, chairman of the War Council of the Red Cross "Back of the fighting Fronts in France are thousands of poor, miserable, suffering men women and children, who, literally, have nothing in the world but the rags on their backs.

The Red Cross aims, among other things, to help these poor people build new homes, and to furnish them with agricultural implements so that they may again have a chance to earn a livelihood.

This is part of the debt each and every one of us owes, and we must not minimize our individual responsibility. Are you doing your share? Have you joined the Red Cross? If not, now is the time. Do not delay. You may secure an annual membership with Red Cross pin for one dollar and twenty-five cents. Twenty five dollars would give you a Life Membership.

Bear Mountain Grange

The regular meeting of Bear Mountain Grange No. 62 having been postponed July 21st on account of the storm, was held Saturday evening, July 28th. In the absence of the Master and Overseer the meeting was called to order by the Worthy Lecturer and Past Master C. S. Hamlin.

The attendance was small and none of those on the literary committee were present, however, the members present enjoyed a pleasant evening. A class of several new members are soon to take their degrees. Sister Maria Ward, who is in the Elliott Hospital, Manchester, N. H., was reported recovering from her recent operation and hoping to soon be able to leave the hospital for the home of relatives in that city.

The next regular meeting is Saturday evening, August 4th. The literary program is in charge of L. E. McIntyre and wife.

DON'T LET INSECTS HARVEST YOUR CROPS

The coming summer is no time to be generous to the insect enemies of growing food. More important beings than they will be hungry for it.

The Maine Agricultural Experiment Station, through its Department of Entomology, invites the gardeners and farmers of the state to send, for determination, specimens of any insects, found to be attacking crops, concerning which they desire information.

There are two reasons for extra watchfulness this season; the great need for food, and the number of inexperienced growers whose efforts to increase the agricultural products of the country should not be checkmated by insect enemies.

Vigilance is the only safeguard. Suspects can be mailed in stout tin boxes marked with the name of the sender. These should be accompanied by a letter giving information as to what food plants are attacked and the extent of the injury observed.

All such inquiries will receive prompt attention if addressed to the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.

BREWER MAN EATS ALTHOUGH HE IS WITHOUT TEETH

Declares That New Tanlac Digests Food Whether It Is Chewed or Not.

"I have no teeth, and I am unable to use false teeth, and yet I am able to eat anything, and I enjoy my meals thoroughly," declared Otis McDonald, teamster of South Brewer, Maine.

At first glance this statement seems a trifle overdrawn, does it not. To say the least, it is a most unusual statement. However, Mr. McDonald made the above remark, and he tells a story that will interest every man and woman here. It is a story that will be doubly interesting to men and women who are in need of a general reconstructive tonic.

"I suffered from indigestion and sour stomach," Mr. McDonald began. "My food was not digesting. The gas became so bad at times that I did not think I could stand it. I had almost given up hope of ever being able to eat heartily again.

"I noticed how much good Tanlac was doing for others and I started to take it. I have no teeth to chew my food, so I have been using Tanlac in place of teeth and it certainly keeps my food digested.

"I can eat anything and it does not trouble me. If I could use my false teeth I would be all right, but I find that Tanlac digests my food just as well as if I chewed it. It has certainly helped me in every way and I am more than glad to recommend it to others who may be suffering as I was."

Tanlac receives remarkable endorsements like this every day from well known Maine men and women.

Tanlac now is being specially introduced in Norway at F. P. Stone's drug store. There is a Tanlac agent in every Maine town. Nearby Tanlac agents are South Paris, C. H. Howard; Harrison, Eugene Tenney; Bridgton, F. E. Stevens; Waterford, L. B. Rounds; East Waterford, R. E. Pinkham; West Paris, S. T. White. Adv.

Auburn, Readfield, Kent's Hill, Monson, Greene, Auburn, Lewiston and other towns, covering more than 165 miles with Mrs. Hayes as driver. Mildred Holmes had charge of affairs at the Horne's Furniture Store during their absence.

A frequenter of Witherell Park has suggested that the town install a drinking fountain of the approved sanitary type, in a convenient spot within its limits. This is a good suggestion and would meet the approval of many if future seasons are to breed sweltering spells like the torrid zone through which humanity has recently passed.

Frank Witham, who recently purchased the Olive A. Woodsum homestead on Main street, has made improvements about the premises, the most noticeable changes being the clearing away unnecessary shrubbery in the front yard. Shade trees are to be thinned out later.

Al. Richardson has finished haying on his farm above Millettville. The crew of four men in ten days secured 50 tons without meeting rains. Several heavy showers passed around during the time without touching that section.
